Asks 4 Dixie Senators Be Refused Congress Seats

NEW YORK—(UP)—President Truman and the Senate Campaign Election Committee were asked today to recommend withholding the oaths of office from four Southern Senators-elect until alleged civil rights violations in their States can be investigated.

In a joint telegram to the President, Bishop D. Ward Nichols, New York, Chairman of the National Civil Rights Conference, and Edgar G. Brown, Washington, Director of the National Negro Council, charged that 2,000,000 Negroes had been denied the right to vote in the November elections in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina.

Citing as a precedent the refusal of the Eightieth Congress to seat the late Sen. Theodore Bilbo, of Mississippi, they asked that the Senate refuse to admit "the socalled Dixiecrat" Senators-Elect Russell Long, Louisiana; James O. Eastland, Mississippi; John J. Sparkman, Alabama, and Burnet R. Maybank, South Carolina, because the alleged disfranchisement of Negroes made their elections illegal.

Turkey Said To Have Received Red Overtures

ANKARA, Turkey—(AP)—Reliable sources said Premier Hasan Saka told his ruling People's Party yesterday that Russia has suggested renewed friendship with Turkey.

These informants said Saka gave that information to a party parliamentary group which questioned him about his conversation with Soviet Ambassador Alexander Lavrishev at a Nov. 7 ball in Ankara marking the anniversary of the Soviet revolution.

One parliamentary deputy was said to have criticized the Premier for attending the ball.

Saka told the parliamentary group that the main theme of Lavrishev's remarks dealt with criticism of Turkish-American relations on geographical grounds. Lavrishev reportedly said Turkey and Russia had common frontiers and friendship between the two nations was much more neutral than between Turkey and the United States.

Lawyer Collapses After Winning $108,000 Verdict

SHREVEPORT, La.—(AP)—A Federal district court jury awarded a $108,000 verdict to Mrs. Frank Jowers yesterday after her attorney, Truett Scarborough, collapsed at the end of an impassioned 45-minute plea.

Several hours later, hospital attendants said the 42-year-old Ruston, La., lawyer was in a serious condition and a definite diagnosis had not been made.

Mrs. Jowers, Bossier City, La., widow, had asked $210,000 in her damage suit against Dowell, Inc., for the death of her husband in an oil field accident in October, 1945.

In his plea to the 12-man jury, Scarborough pictured Mrs. Jowers as a poor widow struggling to support three minor daughters. He urged the jury to grant the full amount requested. Mrs. Jowers, who had been calm throughout the five-day trial, sobbed as Scarborough made his closing plea.

Policemen Contribute to Accidents

ALHAMBRA, Cal.—(AP)—Alhambra took great pains to emphasize November as "Safety Month" in literature, newspaper editorials, radio programs and sage comment from wise, seasoned police traffic officers.

So what happens? Traffic accidents have been declining. Every thing is going along smoothly, until—

Police Officers Anthony Bissett and V. B. O'Brien ram their cars together on a downtown street. Faces red? You can say that again. It happened right in front of the police station. Nobody hurt.

Third 'Hypodermic Robbery' Probed in Ohio

POMEROY, Ohio—(AP)—Officials reported yesterday they were investigating Meigs County's third "hypodermic needle robbery" within 10 days.

A report of the latest incident came from Mrs. Minter Molden, 50. She said three men bound her and put a needle against her back to force her to tell where she had hidden $75. The men told her it was a hypodermic needle and they would use it if she refused to talk, Mrs. Molden said.

Wheels Skid On Slippery Henry Hill

Constitution State News Service

McDONOUGH — A Henry County school bus' careening plunge down a rain-slickened clay hill and into a river late yesterday injured 12 school children, four of them seriously.

The sliding bus knicked the edge of Turner Bridge on State Highwav 20, hung for a second, and then toppled downward. It tumbled to a stop in a bottom-side-up position, with part of the bus in the four-feet-deep waters of Cotton Indian River and the rest of the vehicle on a beach.

Sheriff E. Q. Owen said the driver, Walter Johnson, of Henry County, had reversed his usual route in returning the children to their homes from Pleasant Grove School in order to miss another hazardous clay hill. The bus was headed in the direction of Conyers.

Four youths in an automobile were following the bus to render help if it slid into a ditch, Sheriff Owen said. He reported the youths, 30 feet behind the bus when it began sliding, told him Johnson was traveling only 10 miles per hour.

Dr. R. V. Brandon and Dr. G. R. Foster rendered medical aid to the injured.

Janice Thompson, 12, who suffered a possible fracture of the skull, and 11-year-old Shuffus Jones, whose shoulder was crushed, were sent to Atlanta for further treatment.

Sandra Lindsey, seven, and Marie Lindsey, 10, each suffered a broken arm.

Sheriff Owen said eight other children and the driver suffered minor injuries. Two youngsters escaped without a scratch, he added.

Sheriff Owen said no charges had been made in connection with the accident.

Truman Picks Chief Inflation Foe

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The first decline in living costs in seven months was announced yesterday by the Government.

The announcement made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, came only a few hours after President Truman named Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, Chairman of his Economic Advisory Council, to work out an anti-inflation program for presentation to Congress early next year.

The cost of living decline was slight—only one-half of one percent—but it broke a steady climb through most of the late Spring and Summer.

The decrease showed up in the index for consumer prices. The index dropped to 173.6 for October from the all-time highs of 174.5 for the months of August and September.

The October index is just below the 173.7 July index—so the 338,000 employees of General Motors Corporation, whose pay is partially dependent on the index, get neither a pay boost nor a decrease.

GMC's contract with the CIO provides that workers paid by the hour get a penny an hour more or lose a penny, whenever the Government index fluctuates 1.14 points. On Sept. 1 rises in the index gave GM workers a three-cent wage increase to $1.64 an hour. But the change in the latest index is too small, either way, to alter the $1.64 average wage rate.

The October living cost decline was attributed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics to a substantial and general drop in the retail price of foods. This decline "more than offset increases in all other major groups" of consumer cost items, the BLS said.

It was the third consecutive month of falling prices for foods.

Clothing prices went up in October as did house furnishings, men's haircuts, rents and some utility rates, the Bureau reported. Average retail food costs in October were 2.4 percent below the peak of July, 1948, but still were five percent above a year ago.

Nourse, who the President named to plan anti-inflation strategy, said he would work with the Secretaries of the Treasury, Commerce, Labor, Agriculture, Interior and other agencies.

Final decisions are up to the President, who will determine

Reds Renew Fury of Stabs At Suchow

NANKING—(AP)—Chinese Communist columns yesterday struck with renewed fury at Suchow under a cloud cover, reportedly cutting to pieces an army group covering the Government's last flank.

Pressure mounted on all sides—from the south against the railway to Nanking, from the north, from the east and from the southeast. The air field five miles east seemed the objective of the southeast push.

The Government's air arm, which saved the day in round one of the battle for China's heartland last week, was all but paralyzed by low clouds. Only a break in the weather could loose again.

The heaviest assault appeared to be coming from the east, where the first Red drive split on the rock-like resistance of Gen. Huang Po-Tao's Seventh Army Group at Nienchuang, 33 miles from Suchow.

It was conceded generally in Nanking that Huang's divisions had been almost blasted into extinction.

They received the full shock in that first onslaught two weeks ago. By standing firm then, they lost about half of their effectives.

The Communist radio announced "complete destruction" of Huang's whole group of 10 divisions. That could be 100,000 men. A broadcast said the "annihilation" was completed Monday.

In all, the broadcast added, the Government lost 18 divisions from Nov. 7 to Nov. 22. Both sides

Truman-Purged Slaughter Indicted on Lobby Count

WASHINGTON—(UP)—A Federal Grand Jury yesterday indicted former Rep. Roger C. Slaughter, Democrat, Missouri, on charges of lobbying illegally in Congress for the Kansas City and Chicago Boards of Trade and other grain interests.

The Grand Jury charged that Slaughter failed to register as a lobbyist although he allegedly was employed by the organizations in their efforts to influence legislation.

The 43-year-old Kansas City attorney, a bitter political foe of President Truman, was "purged" from Congress in the 1946 Missouri Democratic Primary after Mr. Truman intervened to support his opponent.

Slaughter charged previously that Mr. Truman personally ordered the Grand Jury investigation for political reasons.

The Grand Jury asserted that Slaughter violated the 1946 Federal lobbying law by failing to register with Congress as lobbyist. The charge carries a maximum penalty of $5,000 fine and one year imprisonment.

According to the indictment, Slaughter should have reported officially that he was employed from Dec. 4, 1947, to Sept. 14, 1948, as a Washington representative of the two Boards of Trade, and the Minneapolis Grain Exchange.

It said he received fees of $25,000, plus $18,599.13 in expenses, from these organizations.

The indictment also charged that Slaughter was retained between March 30, 1948, and June 11, 1948, as a lobbyist for the North American Grain Export Association of New York. The Association allegedly paid him $10,987.44.

The Grand Jury charged that Slaughter tried to influence Con-

U. S. Scores Tom Linder, Three Others

WASHINGTON— (AP) —A Government attorney said yesterday that four men, including the Georgia State Agricultural Commissioner, conspired to get farm legislation passed or defeated for their own gains by clandestine methods.

"This isn't an open lobbying case," Herman Wolkinson, Justice Department attorney, told the Federal District Court. "It is a conspiracy to get legislation passed or defeated by clandestine methods."

Wolkinson spoke out against motions by defense counsel to quash indictments against: State Agricultural Commissioners Tom Linder, of Georgia, and James E. McDonald, of Texas; Robert Harriss, New York commodity broker; Ralph W. Moore, of Washington; the Farm Commissioners' Council and the National Farm Committee.

All were accused of violating the Federal Lobbying Act, and the four individuals of conspiracy to violate the Act.

Wolkinson argued before Judge Edward M. Curran that the Lobby-

FBI Nabs Man In Tot Slaying

CHICAGO—(INS)—FBI agents yesterday seized William Norris Pollard in Chicago and announced the Cincinnati man had confessed the "dresser-drawer" killing of a 21-month-old Huntington, W. Va., boy in a St. Louis hotel.

FBI Agent-in-Charge George McSwain said Pollard told agents he beat Joseph Edward Nichols to death in the American Hotel after registering there Nov. 16.

The child's body was found stuffed in a dresser drawer last Saturday.

Pollard was named in a homicide verdict returned Monday by a Coroner's Jury, which found that the Nichols child had died of internal hemorrhages and shock following a criminal attack.

W. N. Pollard

Pollard plead guilty when arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edwin Walker on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. Walker continued the hearing until Dec. 8.

McSwain said Pollard was seized in front of an American Red Cross office, where the fugitive had gone for travel assistance.

McSwain said agents were continuing to question Pollard in an effort to learn the motive of the child's slaying.

Pollard was quoted as giving FBI agents this account of the slaying:

The baby began crying last Tuesday night in the hotel room. Pollard said he lost his temper and beat the child severely. Pollard said the next morning he found the baby's body cold, and put it in a dresser drawer.

The slain infant was left with Pollard by its mother, Betty Nichols, when she went to visit her husband, a patient in a veterans' mental hospital in Chillicothe, Ohio.

The slaying suspect recently was released from the Chillicothe hospital where Nichols is confined.

Tojo and 6 Must Hang-MacArthur

TOKYO — (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur today affirmed the ruling of Allied Justice that Hideki Tojo and six others must die and 18 co-defendants go to prison for leading Japan into war.

To his statement on review of the sentences, MacArthur added an unusual request. He asked people throughout Japan to pray on the day of execution—"to seek divine help and guidance," he said, "that the world keep the peace lest the human race perish."

And he gave a prayer of his own—that the sentences become a symbol "to summon all persons of good will to a realization of the utter futility of war—that most malignant scourge and greatest sin of mankind—and eventually to its renunciation by all nations."

There was no indication when Tojo, who ordered the attack on Pearl Harbor as Premier; Koki Hirota, another former Premier, and five generals will march up to the gallows to die as war criminals. The date probably will be decided by U. S. Eighth Army authorities.

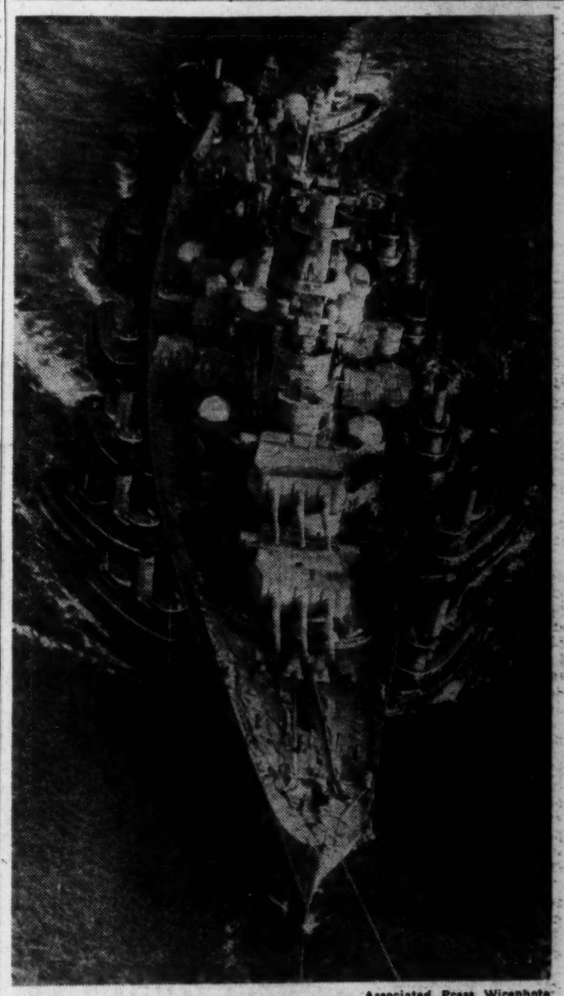

Then, too, appeals may block the executions temporarily. At least five of the 25 defendants are arranging to appeal to the United States Supreme Court. Whether they have the right to do so remains to be determined by the court itself.

Tojo was not one of those seeking clemency. He was represented as wanting to get the hanging over with quickly.

The charter for the International Military Tribunal, which convicted the ex-Japanese leaders of plotting and waging aggressive war, designated MacArthur as the sole reviewing officer.

FOOD, CANDIES TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Atlantans To Observe Thanksgiving With Hymns and Prayers for Peace

By PAUL JONES

Praises of Thanksgiving and prayers for peace in the world will be given by Atlanta's thousands of churchgoers today and tomorrow during services which will be marked by outstanding musical programs and messages based on the Thanksgiving theme.

In many churches food and candies will be assembled during services for distribution to the poor. In other churches congregations of various denominations will gather for union services. In most, choirs will sing joyous hymns, proclaiming thanks for the many blessings.

Holy Comforter, one of the smallest congregations in the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta, will give a helping hand to needy families in the city tomorrow when baskets of fruit, canned goods and food will be assembled at the church during services at 10 a. m. A committee of church women will distribute the baskets to families of all denominations in time for Thanksgiving dinner, the Rev. W. J. Whitfield, Rector, announced.

The annual union service of East Point Avenue Methodist and East Point Presbyterian Churches will be held at 8 p. m. today at the Methodist Church. The Rev. V. L. Bryant, Presbyterian Pastor, will speak. A program of Thanksgiving hymns will be presented by the Methodist Church Choir.

The Baptist Tabernacle's annual Praise Meeting will be conducted at 7 a. m. tomorrow. Jack B. Jones, Minister of Music, has arranged a special musical presentation. The Rev. Jon Pirtle, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Chattahoochee, will speak.

Glenn Memorial Methodist Church's Thanksgiving program will feature a talk by Dr. H. B. Trimble, Dean of the Candler School of Theology, at 11 a. m. tomorrow. The church choir will sing a group of Thanksgiving hymns.

Ground will be broken for the new Annie Laurie Warren Chapel

BELGIAN GIRL DECORATED

Lithonian, Memphian To Greet Liberator

A former Lithonia airman and a buddy from Memphis today will hold a reunion with a Belgian girl who was condemned to death for slipping them and 48 other Allied airmen through Nazi lines to safety.

T. B. Wiggins, then a radio operator, and Thomas D. Applewhite, of Memphis, were among the 10-man crew of a B-17 the Germans shot down Oct. 14, 1943, over Belgium.

Miss Armande Stassert, a nurse at the Brussels Municipal Hospital, sheltered the hiding American from the Nazis. Later she guided them on a danger-laden escape from Belgium to Paris. There they were turned over to other "underground" workers who arranged their return to England.

Wiggins and his companions were under the protection of Miss Stassert for three months. The Allied Government figured Miss Stassert helped a total of 50 downed fliers and escaped prisoners during the war to elude the Germans.

Finally, seized by German agents, she was condemned to death. The invasion came just in time to save her. The Allies awarded her eight decorations.

The American Heritage Foundation arranged the reunion today. Wiggins, now a Southern Bell Telephone installer residing in Lithonia, and Applewhite were the only ones to be found out of the 50 who owe their lives to the former nurse, who now is an airline hostess.

An Army plane flew Wiggins and Applewhite to New York for the reunion celebration.

U. S. Proposes Direct Bargaining Between Jews, Arabs on Palestine

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Also in This Story:
Italy Seen In West Union: Berlin Still UN's Big Topic: Venezuelan Cabinet Quits.

The United States proposed yesterday that the Jews and Arabs settle their territorial disputes in Palestine by bargaining.

The long-awaited American program for a Holy Land solution barred any arbitrary United Nations action to reduce the territory given Israel under the partition decision of Nov. 29, 1947.

It recommended, however, that the Jews and Arabs—with the help of a three-nation commission, negotiate on the basis of both the partition pan and the recommendations of Count Folke Bernadotte, slain UN mediator.

WORLD TODAY Bernadotte had suggested Israel give up the Negev Desert in return for Western Galilee, which Israel had occupied by force. Israel rejected that plan.

The United States program was submitted as amendments to a British resolution implementing the Bernadotte proposals. The U. S. also called for internationalization of Jerusalem and direct talks between Jews and Arabs on political problems.

In Paris, Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi talked with Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and other French officials on "European co-operation." An informed Italian official predicted Italy eventually will join the Western European Union.

The Berlin crisis continued to occupy members of the UN Security Council. The Big Three Western Powers completed their replies to a questionnaire sent to the Big Four by Council President Juan Atilio Bramuglia on the Berlin currency dispute. Russia already has handed in her answer.

A meeting of the six "neutral" council members was called for today to discuss a compromise formula for settling the Berlin squabble.

The Western Allies continued to increase the airlift volume of supplies for blockaded Berlin. American officials in Berlin said the combined British-American operation came within 29 tons of breaking its record.

The Venezuelan Cabinet resigned. A Venezuelan Government announcement said a new cabinet was expected to be formed shortly.

King George Invalid for Rest of Life

LONDON—(UP)— Buckingham Palace sources said last night that so far as can be seen, King George will have to take great care for the rest of his life not to over exert himself.

Informants said that even if the circulatory condition which his physicians announced yesterday clears up, his illness is such that there can be no question of a long and strenuous visit to Australia and New Zealand such as he planned. A shorter visit might be possible in a year's time, they said.

The King had his right foot in an electrically-heated cradle this evening when Prime Minister Clement R. Atlee visited him on routine official business.

It is understood that the King's illness is extremely painful and will require many months of constant treatment.

Five Atlanta Guard Pilots Appear in War Pictures

Five Atlanta members of the Fifty-fourth Fighter Wing of the Georgia Air National Guard will make their film debut when "Fighter Squadron", an action-packed tribute to the men who gave their lives in the late war, opens its Southern premiere at 7:30 p. m. today at the Paramount Theater.

The film is reported to be one of the most picturesque and stirring films of World War II. Actual scenes of combat filmed in full color by the Army Air Forces provide the movie with many of its action sequences. It depicts bombing and strafing of strategic points in Germany and more than five minutes of the film is devoted to the Normandy beachhead operation. Scenes of the D-Day landings were also filmed in full color.

The Atlanta fighter pilots participated in a number of scenes in which aircraft were used.

The 530th Air National Guard Band of the Fifty-Fourth Fighter Wing will be featured in a program of martial music.

MALICIOUS RUMOR DENIED

No Seeing-Eye Dogs For Cellophane Tabs

A blind mill worker in LaGrange will not get his seeing-eye dog. Neither will scores of other blind persons throughout the State—at least not like they expected.

For the malicious report that started countless thousands of Georgians saving cellophane tabs from packages of cigarets in order to get animals for their sightless friends simply isn't true.

Sam Hirsch, President of the J. N. Hirsch Company, Atlanta whole-sale tobacco dealer, said: "There is absolutely no truth in the report."

Hirsch, who acts as jobber for many of the leading popular brands of cigarets, said no prizes, premiums or gifts in any form are given, or pledged, with a package of cigarets unless announced by the manufacturer.

"Then," Hirsch said, "the company offering such prizes would incorporate its offer in a nation-wide advertising campaign. Such offers never would be kept secret to be passed from person to person by rumor."

"It is extremely unkind to the unfortunate people who base their hopes on such erroneous and cruel rumors," he added.

Obie E. Geter, of LaGrange, whose query led The Constitution to determine whether the report was true, said he sought information for a group of textile mill employees who were saving thousands of the little red tabs to obtain a seeing-eye dog for a fellow worker who is blind.

Geter said the report was prevalent throughout his section of the State.

In addition, scores of queries have been received in The Constitution office.

Hirsch advised Georgians to disbelieve any such report in the future unless it is accompanied by an announcement by the manufacturer.

Teachers Disciplined By Board

Two Negro school teachers—Rheuben Taylor and his wife, Vera—yesterday were disciplined by the Atlanta Board of Education after they pleaded guilty to charges filed against them by Miss Ira Jarrell, School Superintendent.

The guilty plea was filed by Pierre Howard, attorney for the defendants, after a public hearing on the charges had dragged more than two hours.

Miss Jarrell had charged that the couple absented themselves from class rooms without permission and insubordination was involved. When the trial opened, they categorically denied the charges, but as the hearing progressed, Howard recommended a plea.

On motion of D. F. McClatchey, member of the Board, Taylor will be demoted two steps in his salary scale which will mean a loss of about $20 a month in pay. He also will be placed on probation for a three-year period.

The wife will be demoted one step in pay at a cost of $10 monthly. Both will lose their pay from the time they were suspended Oct. 19

B. D. Murphy acted as special prosecutor for the Board at the hearing.

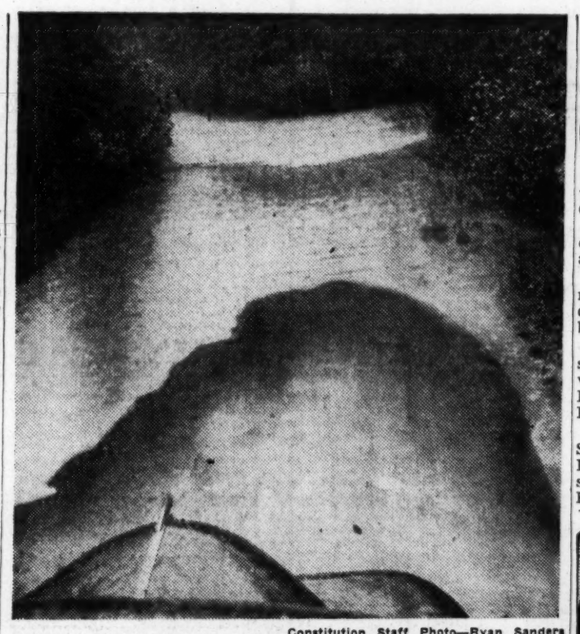

McClatchey also sponsored a resolution calling on the administration to specifically instruct principals and teachers that rules governing absences of teachers and other employees of the Board will be enforced rigidly.

254,646 Truman Votes Cast in Georgia Election

The Democratic Party carried Georgia for President Truman in the general election by a majority, polling a total of 254,646 votes, Gov. Herman Talmadge announced yesterday.

All other parties combined received a total of 164.114, making a total vote of 418,760.

The Democratic electors will meet at the State Capitol Jan. 5 to cast their ballots. The results will be telegraphed to Washington.

The official vote tabulation showed Talmadge received 354,711 votes for Governor, while Sen. Richard Russell polled 362,104. Both were unopposed.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ATLANTA'S NEWEST, MOST MODERN $100,000 TIRE RECAPPING PLANT

FREE PARKING FOR 60 CARS AND TRUCKS

LATEST LODI RECAPPING EQUIPMENT

In this beautiful building we are doing a beautiful job of tire recapping. While you ride on our tires, the most modern Supermold equipment, handled by factory trained men, using the latest factory methods, recap your tires. And you get your renewed tires back fast, because we are equipped for quick service.

Science has brought recapping to perfection. Precision gauges and automatic controls watch over air pressure and temperature. Our own steam plant assures uniform mold temperatures so important to long-life in a recap job. Our special drying room dehydrates the carcass. Our expert workers apply the finest grade of camelback. And the Lodi equipment assures a fully integrated, safe, new, tread on your tires. This is also a tire, tube, battery and accessory store, for your convenience. Drive in any time—park on the broad concrete apron, with room for 60 cars or trucks. And shop our wide stock of top-grade accessories for your car.

We have installed the famous Bear Wheel Balancing equipment. Drive without shimmy. Makes tires and steering-gear last longer. Makes a more comfortable ride.

For the best service in this field, call WAlnut 5595, or come by and visit this highly modern operation. Remember, all the millions of miles of Belle Isle taxicab and U-Drive-It experience has gone into making this the best plant of its kind in the whole South.

Poker Prod Gets Jones Testimony

NEW YORK — (AP) — If Jesse Jones, former head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is well enough to play poker until 2 a. m., he is well enough to be questioned as a witness, a Federal Judge ruled yesterday.

Judge Samuel H. Kaufman made his ruling in granting the motion of counsel for James A. Moffett, one-time Federal Housing Administrator, to have the 74-year-old Houston, Texas, financier, appear in Federal Court Friday for questioning.

Moffett, also a former Standard Oil Company executive, is suing the Arabian American Oil Company, Inc., for $6,000,000. He claims this for services he said he rendered the latter company in Saudi Arabia in 1941.

Among other things, Moffett claims he worked out plans whereby the British Government took over financial demands made by the King of Saudi Arabia against the oil company, which had hired Moffett. Involved in this, he said, were conferences with President Roosevelt, Jones and others.

His attorney has been seeking a Federal Court order permitting the oral examination of Jones in the case.

On last Nov. 15, an affidavit submitted to Kaufman by a Park Avenue physician said Jones was suffering a severe heart condition. It expressed the opinion that for him to act as a witness in the law suit "would be detrimental to his health."

But Moffett filed an affidavit yesterday with Kaufman stating that on Nov. 16 "the witness Jones played poker at the 29 Club, located at 11 East Sixty-first St., until approximately 2 a. m., EST. On Wednesday, Nov. 17, and in the course of the evening the said Jones consumed large quantities of whiskey."

Observed Judge Kaufman: "If he can stay out and play poker he can submit to an oral examination."

He directed the questioning be held in his private chambers, adding "it is nice and comfortable there."

The Rev. Theodore G. Ahrendt, Pastor of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, will speak on "Bless the Lord, O My Soul" during Thanksgiving services at 11 a. m. tomorrow. The Senior Choir will sing "Now Thank We All Our God," and "Thanks Be To God."

The First Presbyterian Church will mark Thanksgiving with services at 11 a. m. Dr. William V. Gardner, Pastor, will speak on "Silent Harps," and Dr. Charles A. Sheldon, Minister of Music, and the choirs of the church will offer an appropriate program of music.

Special Thanksgiving Day services will be held by five Methodist churches in the Marietta Circuit at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the New Hope Methodist Church. Other churches taking part in the service will be the Wesley Chapel, Mt. Bethel, Holly Springs, and New Lebanon Churches.

The Rev. Burton J. Cheng, member of the North China Methodist Conference, and Dr. Wyatt Aiken Smart, Chaplain of Emory University, will speak. A musical program will be given by the Wesleyan Musicians.

Eyskens Agrees To Try At Belgian Government

BRUSSELS, Belgium—(AP)—Gaston Eyskens, former Minister of Finance, agreed yesterday to try to form a new Belgian Government. Former Premier Paul-Henri Spaak had failed.

Eyskens, a member of the Social Christian (Catholic) Party, was received by Prince Regent Charles shortly after Spaak, a Socialist leader, went to the Regent to report failure. A Palace communique said Eyskens accepted the assignment.

CHINESE TROOPS DELAYED ON WAY TO SUCHOW BATTLE—Chinese troops, en route to Suchow from the South, relax in front of the Pukow railroad station Nov. 16 after being halted when Chinese Communist forces cut the Tientsin-Pukow railroad line nort hof Pukow. Communists have regrouped after being driven off last week and are opening a new drive for Suchow. Meanwhile, in Washington it was estimated $5,000,000,000 would be needed from the U. S. to halt the Red advance.

Any New China Aid May Include 10,000 Men

WASHINGTON—(AP)—If the United States decides on a new effort to turn the Communist tide in China, one responsible estimate is that the American military mission there must be expanded to some 10,000 officers and men.

The Army mission on the scene now is concerned only with training the Nationalists. The administration and Congress have received recommendations that to be effective any new aid program must include tight American supervision and guidance of actual military operations.

An unheralded meeting of the National Security Council—made up of top defense officials—was held at the White House yesterday. What was said and done was kept secret.

The backers estimate $500,000,000 a year for several years would cover the cost to the United States, aside from economic help. American military aid to China this year is $125,000,000.

There was no word that President Truman and Sec. of State Marshall were near a decision whether to respond to Chiang's plea for increased and prompt help to halt the Communist advance toward Nanking.

Marshall has scheduled a news conference for this afternoon.

The $500,000,000 a year military cost estimate is one of several put forward thus far. Former Sen. D. Worth Clark, Republican, Idaho, reported last week to a Senate committee after a special mission to China that effective American aid would cost more than $1,000,000,000 a year for several years.

usually exaggerate casualties. The Associated Press at San Francisco heard the broadcast.

The official Central News Agency said a relief column was only about nine miles from Nienchuang. Other sources said that, even so, there was little hope many of Huang's troops still were able to fight.

Another Communist column, estimated at possibly 70,000 men, seized high ground southeast of Suchow in what looked like a drive on Suchow's only air field How close it was to the field was not clear.

A report that planes still were using the field indicated the Reds were not yet so close as they were last week when they shelled it before being pushed back.

Other troops of Gen. Chen Yi's Communist Armies of East China were moving down against Suchow's northern defense line.

The Communists appeared to be in possession of Suhsien, 50 miles south of Suchow on the railway to Nanking. The Government's Twelfth Army Group, brought up from the Central China base of Hankow, was believed ordered to recapture Suhsien.

Lying in wait for these fresh forces, however, were the Central China Armies of Communist Gen. Liu Po-Cheng.

Despite the bad weather, workhorse transport planes of the Chinese Air Force and private transports — some American-piloted—droned in and out of Suchow, removing 10,000 wounded. These are victims of the first round of the battle.

There were no new developments in North China, where the Government completed the withdrawal from Paoting, capital of Hopeh Province. The garrison was hauled back for a defense of the Peiping area.

INFLATION

just what sort of program will be presented to Congress.

Nourse has not been known as a New Deal type of economic planner, but he has shown a willingness to favor economic controls "when necessary."

He said recently he believed the idea of such controls "cannot be divorced from other policies of the Government.

Earlier this month he said he felt the "Government should stand ready to introduce those measures of finance and control which will minimize the disturbing effects . . . on the economy" of military spending.

And he added that the public should make necessary sacrifices and "accept the disciplines which are entailed" by such spending.

Yesterday's cost-of-living report—and other signs—indicate that Nourse's job might be a comparatively easy one—that the inflationary spiral might end before the next Congress convenes. However, officials were keeping their fingers crossed because similar signs appeared in 1947 and early 1948, and proved to be wrong.

One top Washington official expressed belief that inflationary forces are still somewhat stronger than the deflationary tendencies, although he said they were closer to a balance than at any time since the war.

He continued that the law is not concerned with "trifles," such as a man sending a telegram to his Congressman, or a witness appearing before a Congressional committee to voice his personal opinions.

State Game Board Hit By Thrasher

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The State Game and Fish Commission has been doing business in a highly irregular manner, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., said yesterday.

The Assembly-appointed watchman over State funds reported Commission Director Charles Elliott had unusually large expense accounts for meals while traveling.

He also pointed out that A. E. Anderson had admitted embezzling $4,815 and that three employees, including Elliott, had made refunds to the State.

Two of these employees, Thomas H. Jones and M. D. McRae, "violated rules, regulations and laws of the State," said Thrasher in his official report.

McRae, the report continued, paid $154 to the State to replace funds used to purchase gasoline for his personal car, while Jones turned back $95 for "mileage irregularities.

Anderson, now under indictment for embezzlement, obtained the money, said Thrasher, while serving as Commission cashier. He said Anderson issued checks to persons not on the State payroll and then indorsed and cashed them.

Elliott paid back $200 from his September travel allowance, Thrasher wrote, for trips made "in violation of executive orders."

The State Auditor did not charge Elliott with an excess of $1,500 above the travel mileage shown on his car's speedometer.

Elliott said his speedometer was broken and submitted affidavits to Thrasher that the trips were made.

The State Auditor also observed that Elliott paid $10.45 for one day's meals in Savannah; $11.25 for a day's meals in Brunswick and $27.65 for two days' meals while staying in a tourist cabin near Augusta.

"The Commission," said Thrasher, "should take action necessary in restricting such claims on expense accounts."

Thrasher said he had filed a copy of the report with Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook. The latter said it would be next week before he decided whether to take action against those named as committing law violations.

The Auditor also recommended that steps be taken to recover the funds embezzled by Anderson either from Anderson or his bonding company.

ON THE LABOR FRONT

East Coast Commerce Struck by Embargo

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

East Coast commerce took a one-two punch Tuesday from a tightening of the shipping strike and a Railway Express embargo on nearly all rail and air shipments into New York City.

Meanwhile, the American Federation of Labor sounded a new note of labor unity and the CIO leadership recommended a strong expression from the CIO convention upholding American foreign policy and condemning actions of the Soviet Union.

These were the developments on the labor front:

East Coast Shipping: Halifax longshoremen decided not to handle any more ships diverted from the U. S. East Coast strikebound ports pending a union meeting Wednesday. The Halifax longshoremen had handled a few vessels. Meanwhile a compromise proposal providing for a long-sought waterfront welfare fund was rejected as "too vague" by the striking AFL Longshoremen's Association.

West Coast Shipping: The San Francisco Call-Bulletin reported that striking CIO longshoremen rejected an unofficial wage boost offer of 13 cents an hour. However, in Washington, George Killion, West Coast shipping official, predicted the 83-day-old strike would end "within a week."

Railway Express: The Railway Express Agency ordered an embargo on express shipments into New York "except certain carload shipments" as the result of a "slowdown strike" by terminal employees. Other points affected were Jersey City, Weehawken and Hoboken, N. J., and all Long Island offices. The Agency said the slowdown resulted after the discharge of 13 employees.

Trucking: New York also was hit by a truck drivers' strike. Officials of Local 282, AFL Brotherhood of Teamsters, said 2,000 drivers and helpers have struck against about 300 firms. The walkout has affected a third of the city's trucking industry, an employer spokesman said. The strike has curtailed freight shipments from the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad yards and has resulted in an embargo from the Pennsylvania on New York-bound freight in less than carload lots.

American Federation of Labor: AFL President William Green told reporters that immediate peace talks were planned with the International Association of Machinists. The IAM, with 650,000 members, left the AFL in 1946 after a long dispute with the carpenters over installing plant machinery. The AFL convention, at its closing session in Cincinnati, called on its officers to work with the CIO, John L. Lewis and the machinists for a unified labor movement.

Congress of Industrial Organizations: CIO leaders at their annual convention in Portland, Ore., asked delegates to assail Russia for "abuses in the exercise of the veto power," for "shortsighted and unjust opposition" to the Marshall Plan, and for the Berlin blockade.

An apparently inocuous resolution exploded yesterday, causing a bitter left wing-right wing battle on the CIO convention floor for the second straight day.

Pres. Philip Murray again was in the vanguard of the struggle, which showed signs of becoming a definite campaign to knock Communists and fellow-travelers from CIO office.

The resolution was one urging increased organizing efforts. Left-wingers seized upon it to denounce Murray's criticism of the left Monday and to decry what James Matles of the United Electrical Workers said were raids by some CIO unions on his and other organizations. Others implied high CIO officials approved the raids.

George Baldanzi, Executive Vice President of the Textile Workers and a key man in the Southern organization drive, fired the heaviest counter-blast.

"We don't have raids in the CIO. We have revolts of workers against Communist domination," he shouted. The vast majority of delegates rose cheering.

Funds for organizing campaigns "will go to waste until we can wipe our face and go to America as a 100 percent American organization," he continued. The cheering increased.

The convention is truly making history, Baldanzi added, "for it is the first time we have laid on the table the things that have been retarding the growth of this organization."

Redwine Slashes 110 Jobs Off 'Revenue' Rolls

State Revenue Commissioner Charles Redwine announced yesterday he had abolished more than 110 jobs in his department in a move to comply with Gov. Talmadge's economy program.

"I've already cut off more than 110," Redwine said. "And there have been other cuts. I have been so busy I haven't had time to add them up."

The Commissioner indicated he would reduce expenses of his department's operation wherever possible.

At the same time Redwine announced the appointment of Albert Dozier, of Leary, as director of the farm gas refund unit of the department.

CIO Praises Dixie Drive Committee

PORTLAND, Ore. — (Special) The Congress of Industrial Organizations, on the second day of what promises to be the most tumultous convention in its history, unanimously adopted a resolution commending the CIO Organizing Committee (Southern drive) and pledging continued support to the drive.

Van A. Bittner, National Director of the CIO Organizing Committee, and his staff were extended "approval and appreciation for their constructive and vigorous activity in the face of great difficulties."

Scheduled to come on the floor later in the Convention is a constitutional amendment that would increase the per capita tax paid by the several affiliated International Unions to the National CIO, with a definite sum earmarked for continuation of the Southern drive. The Southern drive, which was launched in June, 1946, has been financed by contributions from the 40 International Unions in CIO.

Atlanta-Macon 4-Laner To Be Discussed in Macon

MACON—(AP)—Additional features of a plan to secure a four-lane highway between Macon and Atlanta will be outlined to a group of Macon citizens at a banquet here Friday night, according to Chester Chapman, President of the U. S. Highway 41 Association.

The banquet will be held at Hotel Lainer and guests invited will include Mayor Lewis B. Wilson, members of City Council, representatives of oil companies and other businessmen in the city who receive direct benefit from traffic on U. S. 41.

Chapman pointed out that interest has been mounting in communities along the route toward building of the four-lane highway. Members of the Association recently talked with State Highway Department officials who, according to Chapman, were favorably impressed with the plan.

Chapman said that the Association would point out to guests at the banquet that traffic records show that from Chattanooga to Macon, Highway 41 carries the heaviest load of traffic in the entire State.

He said that if the highway were completed, it would give Georgia one of the longest stretches of four-lane roads in the United States. He estimated a highway of this type would cost $20,000,000 with 50 percent of the cost to be footed by the Federal Government.

Lizzie Has Insight Into Life of FDR

By BILL BORING

Lizzie McDuffie lives in a little frame house at 103 Randolph St., N. E., among memories rich in history.

Her previous residence was the White House on Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue, where she was a maid in the household of the late President Roosevelt.

Someday Lizzie intends to write a book of her life in the White House and we'll bet that it will be more interesting than a lot of books already published.

For Lizzie had an insight into the life of President Roosevelt few people were privileged to have.

She knew Roosevelt not as the President but as Papa and Grandpa Roosevelt. She was in on the family talk around the table.

For my money Lizzie has the answers to a lot of the controversies related to Roosevelt. Like whether he sought a third term. Lizzie doesn't think he did. She thinks, rather, that he reluctantly yielded to a sequence of events brought on by the war.

"Else," says Lizzie, "why would Mr. Roosevelt have built the Hilltop House?"

The Hilltop House is a retreat which the President built at his Hyde Park estate about midway of his second term.

He used to tell Lizzie's husband, the late Irvin H. McDuffie, Roosevelt's valet, that he was building that house to live in once his second term was over.

"McDuffie," Lizzie quotes the President as having said, "when we get through this term, first, we're going to take a trip around the world. Then we're going to the Hilltop House to live. You'll look after me. I'm not going to do anything but write. Not even going to have a phone in the house. It'll be a great life, McDuffie."

SPEAKING OF ROOSEVELT: Lizzie McDuffie thinks, too, that the President wished private life so he would have more time for his grandchildren. Lizzie says he was one of the greatest grandfathers she has ever seen, and all her life she has been in homes where there were grandfathers. He would always spend time with his grandchildren, when they were at the White House, before starting his day's work, Lizzie says. Get down on the floor and play children's play with them. Like this little scene with Chandler, Elliott's son, and Sarah, James' daughter. With the little old toy milk wagon Lizzie has in her back room. "Now, Sarah," the President would say, "you'll be the mama and you, Chandler, you'll be the papa. I'll be the milk man. Now how much milk will you folks be wanting today?"

IN APPRECIATION: To the people who have been so generous in their praise of this column both in expression by letter and to me personally. And to the people who have helped me by writing in tips and suggestions.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Joy To Watch Herd On Lush Grazing Field

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 24, 1948

Suggestion of the day: "Whoever coined the expression 'cheap as dirt' did the world an injustice and a disservice."—The First National Bank of Paris, Texas.

NOT JUST ANYTHING

There is little more solid satisfaction to be found anywhere than in turning a herd of cattle into a field of lush grazing. This I know from personal experience. When we first came to Yellow River we had the same ideas as many of our neighbors that anything green was edible and nutritious and many were the days when our poor cattle and sheep had to make it through on honeysuckle, switch-cane, broom sedge and bulrushes, with here and there a smidgen of Bermuda without any fertilizer whatever.

Through the years we have been changing these conditions but even so, there was always the business of making hay today for use tomorrow, and the animals didn't even get to the first-class grazing. Well, hardly ever. We would turn them into the Winter fields and try to balance their diets with stacks of hay, made with arduous labor and all too soon dissipated.

And then we discovered year-round grazing, whereby the animals are always eating on a perennial pasture crop, with rotations from season to season, and with nutritious green stuff before them at all times. The difference in the animals and in the operation of the farm is remarkable. All we do now is put the animals on the proper pasture and see that they do not stay there too long.

Last week we had the pleasure again of moving 60 head (cows and calves) from one fescue pasture to a fresh one. Within 10 minutes they were dispersed all over the field and eating as though their lives depended on filling up at once. As we stood on a high spot observing the scene and recalling the past years of trial and error, we had the feeling of having arrived—of having finally reached permanency, that from here out all we had to do was manage the pastures properly.

The bulging sides of the animals did not lessen our happiness, either.

Join us at 6 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. It's good for you, so they say.

As ever,

Channing Cope

QUITTER-GROUP PROSPECT

Muchly Joined McGrath Cited

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An Indiana preacher has come up with a wonderful new organization: The Organization to Encourage People to Quit Organizations.

The Rev. Dr. Howard W. Stone, of Franklin, Ind., thinks more people should spend more time at home with their families. So the OEPQO has for its motto: "Be a Quitter." Its password is "No."

Now I hate to offer advice to anyone whose thinking is so right. But I'd like to suggest that, as his little group expands, it may want to send out missionaries. He'll find no more fertile field than Washington.

For this city, maybe above all cities, is a city of joiners.

Politicians join.

Skeptic will say they join because it's good business to join as many organizations as possible. Those who know them better will say they join because, like prairie dogs, they're naturally gregarious.

In my favorite literature, the "Congressional Directory," each Congressman presents a short autobiography. In it he usually lists the organizations to which he belongs.

Let us look at Sen. McGrath, Democrat, Rhode Island, who, as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee has had the fairly busy job of getting President Truman re-elected.

Yet McGrath finds time to belong to:

Advisory Board, Bryant College; Board of Trustees, Rhode Island Infantile Paralysis Foundation; President, Greater Providence Chapter National Infantile Paralysis Foundation; four bar associations.

National Association of Insurance Agents; International, New England, and Rhode Island Associations Chiefs of Police; International Association for Identification; Rhode Island Historical Association; Providence Grange No. 45, Patrons of Husbandry.

He also is a past President of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and a past High Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters. He still is a Vice President of the Irish Historical Society.

McGrath belongs to the Ancient Order of Hibernians; Royal Arcanum; Knights of Columbus, fourth degree; Elks; Fraternal Order of Eagles; AMVETS (honorary member); the Westchester Country Club, the Clover Club of Boston, the Turks Head Club of Providence, the Town Criers of Rhode Island and the University Club of Washington.

Through? Not McGrath. Having time to kill, he also belongs to the Urban League, the National Democratic Club of New York and the American Judicature Society.

Obviously McGrath sets a snappy pace, even for Washington.

But we have all types of organizations here, from Rep. Fletcher, Republican, California, who belong to the Native Sons of the Golden West, to Rep. Stigler, Democrat, Oklahoma, who belongs to the Choctaw Indian Tribe.

So welcome to Washington, Dr. Stone. We need you.

Rev. A. Ernest, Monticello, Gets Milk Board Seat

Gov. Herman Talmadge yesterday completed reorganization of the State Milk Conrol Board by naming the Rev. Augustus Ernest, of Monticello, as a consumer representative.

The appointment of Ernest, a retired Methodist minister, filled the last vacancy on the Board. He was sworn in yesterday by Talmadge.

Others on the Board are one other consumer representative, two producers, two producer-distributors, one store representative and a distributor representative.

Director Charles G. Duncan announced the Board would hold a public hearing Dec. 7 to discuss milk prices in the Atlanta area.

A court injunction halted a two cents a quart hike granted by the previous Board. The new Board will take up the question of the Atlanta prices following the public hearing.

Is McCoy Difference In Tech Wins, Losses?

Speaking of this Tech-Georgia game . . .

Last week a young man named Robert Howard McCoy returned to the Tech regular line-up for the first time in three weeks. He played a few minutes against The Citadel in a sort of early-morning test for a bum knee which he injured against Duke.

According to all reports, Mr. McCoy's joint is as good as new and, consequently, the Yellow Jackets' chances of upsetting Georgia in Athens Saturday are greatly enhanced.

One only has to check the records to see that Tech's two defeats this season were suffered when Mr. McCoy was out of full-time action and, at the same time, to realize that Tech played its best ball of the season when he was in good shape.

The Tech team which lost to Tennessee and Alabama was not the same Tech team which defeated Vanderbilt and Tulane in the opening games of the season. Yet the only difference was McCoy being under the weather.

True, he went out of the Duke game in the early minutes and Tech still won. But not easily. It was a terrific struggle. He didn't play against the Vols and only a little while against the Crimson Tide.

Can It Be True? Can one ball player make such a difference in a team?

This could be argued back and forth into the wee hours of the morning and probably will be. But I'll take the affirmative.

In the first place, Mr. McCoy is one of the few Georgia Tech standard-sized backs, weighing about 175 pounds. Consequently, he is one of Bob Dodd's best defensive side backs, both against passes and running plays.

In the second place, by his own coache's admission, Robert is the best running back in the Gold and White uniform this year.

And, in the third place, if that isn't enough to prove his worth, McCoy was selected as the best halfback in the whole Southeastern Conference by Bill Hartman, the Georgia backfield coach, earlier in the season.

So if Tech wins, McCoy could well be the difference.

Running Important Here's another angle to the historic classic.

It is no mystery that no matter how good a team's passing attack, that alone isn't enough to win many ball games. You've go to be a threat on the ground as well.

Last season, in Tech's 7-0 defeat of Georgia, the Yellow Jackets did a great job of stopping John Rauch's passing and the Bulldogs were unable to muster a good enough running game to take advantage of the Tech defense.

Perhaps the man who realizes this best is James Wallace Butts, the Georgia coach, and his recent actions would tend to prove it.

For the past several weeks, Georgia has been concentrating on its ground game. To date, the Bulldogs have scored 37 touchdowns on nine opponents, yet only seven of these came on passes.

This would indicate that Butts has been placing more and more emphasis on a running attack to go along with Rauch's throwing.

You Can't Figure It In such a game as the Bulldog-Jacket annual clash, it's pretty useless to try to figure the advantage one team has over the other. Usually the edge is an over-all team advantage which doesn't show up until the game gets under way or the final whistle blows.

But, for the sake of argument, let's try and figure it.

Tech appears to have the edge in line backing, spearheaded by Hook, Bossons and Smith; defensive line play, led by Healy and the ends, and in over-all team speed.

Georgia would seem to be superior in its passing attack, with Rauch, Walston and Lorendo; in punting and place-kicking with Geri; in weight and perhaps in reserves, although I'm sure Wally Butts will argue about that.

Okay, with that out of the way, let's wait and see how wrong we are.

Graziano Unable To Box Apostoli

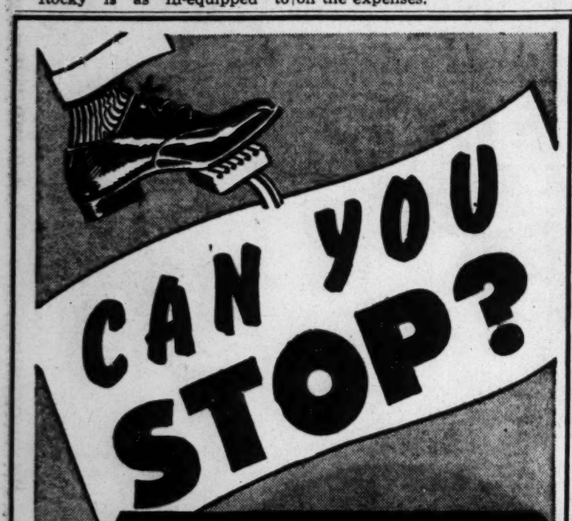

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rocky Graziano, the former middleweight champion, is in a "mental and emotional state that precludes his fighting at this time," his manager, Irving Cohen, declared last night.

Graziano was scheduled to fight Fred Apostoli, also a former champion, in Oakland, Cal., Dec. 1. The bout was called off yesterday by Promoter Jimmy Murray.

Rocky vanished from Oakland last week and turned up at his home in Brooklyn. He promised to return, then changed his mind.

"Rocky is as ill-equipped to fight today as he would be if he were suffering from some physical ailment," Cohen told a press conference. "Unfortunately his difficulty is not one that might be discovered by the California Athletic Commission or by any other commission. Nevertheless, it remains that he is in no condition to enter a ring."

In Oakland, Murray said he had spent $9,000 on the fight and that about $60,000 in tickets had been sold. Cohen said he hoped to work out some agreement with Murray on the expenses.

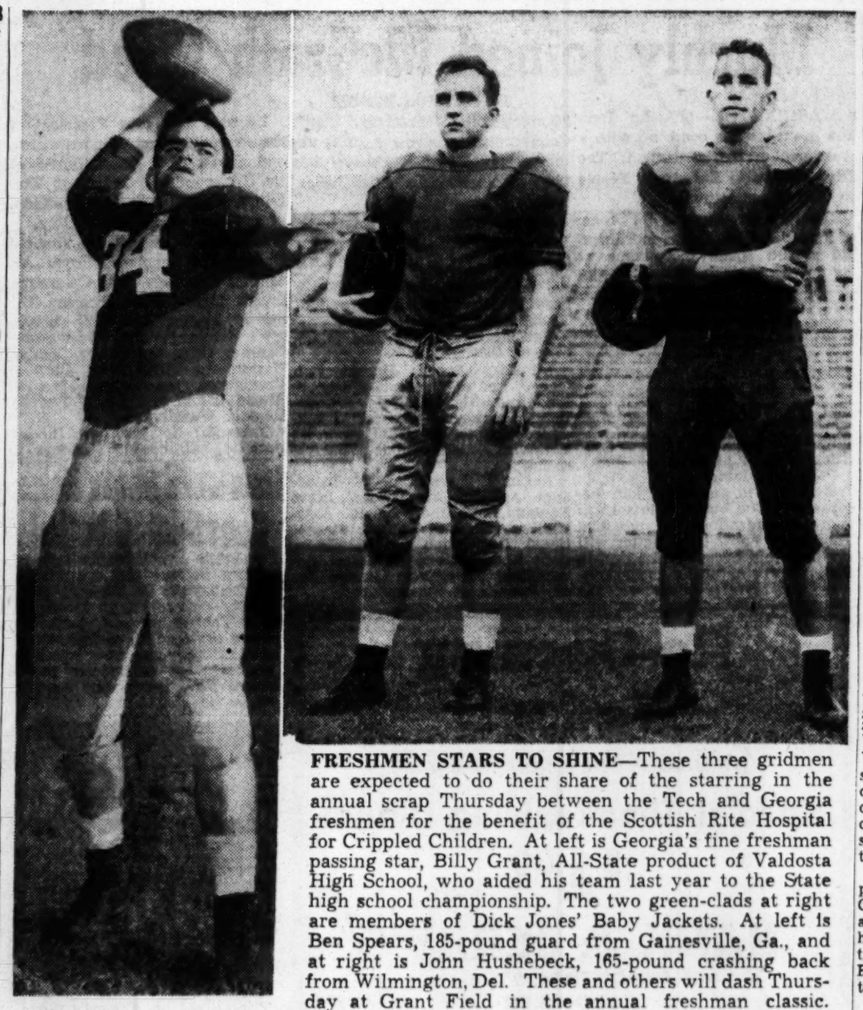

Here's What We Do—

1 Remove front wheels and inspect lining.
2 Inspect, clean and repack front wheel bearings.
3 Inspect brake drums.
4 Check and add brake fluid if needed.
5 Adjust the brake shoes to secure full contact with drums.
6 Carefully test brakes.

HELP FOR THE HELPLESS

Many Georgians To Be in Lineups As Frosh Meet Thanksgiving Day

By GEORGE TISINGER

If the tentative starting line-ups materialize on Grant Field Thursday when the Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia freshmen square off for their annual battle, there will be a definite home State flavor about the game.

Georgia Coach Quinton Lumpkin already has announced a proposed starting lineup of 11 Georgia State boys. Coach Dick Jones, of the Baby Jackets, came through yesterday with a possible starting lineup including five Peach State products.

The five Georgians expected to trod the turf for the Jackets as the opening whistle sounds are Pete Ferris, 6 ft. 2 in. 181-pound left end from Griffin; Ray Beck, 6 ft. 2 in. 201-pound left guard from Cedartown; Neil Greer, 6 ft. 2 in. 203-pound center from Savannah; John Weigle, 6 ft. 1 in. 193-pound right end from Augusta, and George Maloof, 6 ft. 180-pound fullback, formerly of Atlanta's Marist College.

The game, an annual grid rivalry between the two ancient enemies, is for the benefit each year of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. And no matter who wins on the field it is the crippled children who otherwise would have had no chance to live a normal life who are the real winners. For each year every dollar and every cent paid into the gate receipts office goes to the hospital and about half the expense of the institution which is supported by the Shrine is defrayed by this one game.

Nobody enters the stadium that day without a paid for ticket. This even includes the players.

It's a double-barrelled attraction. On the field the smouldering rivalry between Tech and Georgia comes to boil for the first time each year. It comes to its climax on the following Saturday each year when the varsity squads of the two schools meet in their annual battle. And in later years the Tech-Georgia game that many stars of both schools remember most vividly is the one when they first crossed swords with their enemy in the freshman game for the crippled children.

Both frosh outfits are jammed with stars of prep schools. Both teams have put in rugged Falls on their own practice fields and performed the necessary duties of providing opposition for their varsities during practice sessions.

They have played a game or two against outside rivals, but nobody pays much attention to these early games. It is the annual Scottish Rite battle that everybody is looking forward to as being the payoff.

Here those former prep school stars shine in all their glory on their own for the first time. And it is on the field this day that people see for themselves what the athletes they have only vaguely heard of before can do for themselves in the arena with everybody watching.

There are still good seats left. And their price is reasonable. West and east stand seats are being sold for $1.80 and the south stand seats are going at $1.20.

It isn't much to pay for a sure enough football game plus the chance to do a fine thing for a helpless child.

EVERYBODY'S PICKING 'EM

Sugar Bowlers Waiting For Saturday's Returns

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Everybody seems to know who ought to play in the Sugar Bowl football game—except the men who pick the teams.

Advice has been pouring into Sugar Bowl headquarters by telegram, telephone, letter and post card, from U. S. Senators, sports editors, influential alumni and others.

The advice is much appreciated, because it certainly shows somebody cares. But the selection is keeping an open mind, at least until Saturday evening.

"We haven't sent anyone anywhere to talk to anyone or look at any team," is the rather definite way the Sugar Bowl's executive manager, Fred Digby, described the situation yesterday.

Members of the committee are going to talk about the New Year's Day team today—but just to each other. They've scheduled a meeting for the purpose.

However, says Digby, the only information likely to issue will be concerning the time for announcement of the chosen teams. And even that isn't certain to be decided.

The new Southeastern Conference rule, forbidding a member to enter a Bowl agreement "actual or implied" until 8 p. m. the Saturday after Thanksgiving, is a delaying factor in the selection.

The Sugar Bowl isn't committed to the choice of a Southeastern Conference team. But at least three—Georgia, Mississippi and Tulane—are more or less in the running for a bid.

"And we're strictly obeying the rules," said Digby. "We haven't contacted any team."

Even without Southeastern teams in the running, the teams would hardly be made public until Saturday's results are in. For such other eligibles as Michigan State, North Carolina, Clemson and Oklahoma have games Saturday.

SMU'S BOWL PICK WITHHOLDS REPLY TO COTTON BID

DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—Cotton Bowl officials said yesterday there was small likelihood of an announcement of the visiting team in the Dallas New Year's day grid classic before today.

The bowl selection committee had planned to meet yesterday afternoon to make a decision on the team to play Southern Methodist University, Southwest Conference standard bearer, in the Cotton Bowl.

But officials said it was unable to do so because the team contacted was withholding an immedaite answer.

The Southern Methodist squad Monday voted on the team it wanted to play in the bowl but kept its selection a secret.

Unofficially, however, it was reported that first choice was undefeated North Carolina.

Georgia 12th In AP Poll

NEW YORK—(AP)—Michigan held the lead as four of the top 10 teams bettered their positions in the next-to-last Associated Press poll of the season of leading college football teams.

The Wolverines, who wound up their second straight unbeaten season with a 13-3 victory over Ohio State Saturday, polled 105 first place votes out of 190 ballots. Their point total was 1,726.

Notre Dame held second place, 103 points behind. The Irish got 38 first place votes.

Other first place ballots went to third-place Army (5), fourth-place North Carolina (14), fifth-place California (3), sixth-place Oklahoma (13), ninth-place Clemson (8), eleventh-place Michigan State (3) and twelfth-place Georgia (1).

The team standings, figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 point basis. (First place votes in parentheses).

1, Michigan (105), 1,726; 2, Notre Dame (38), 1,623; 3, Army (5), 1,293; 4, North Carolina (14), 1,071; 5, California (3), 907; 6, Oklahoma (13), 839; 7, Northwestern, 730; 8, Southern Methodist, 540; 9, Clemson (8), 428; 10, Oregon, 316; 11, Michigan State (3), 258; 12, Georgia (1), 250; 13, Minnesota, 96; 14, Tulane, 85; 15, Vanderbilt, 52; 16, Mississippi, 39; 17, Ohio State, 38; 18, Penn State, 36; 19, Pennsylvania, 32; 20, William and Mary, 24.

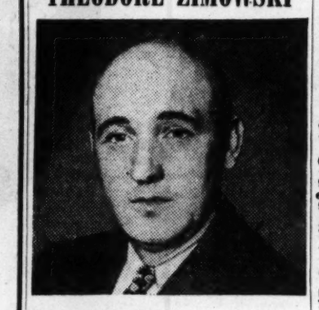

Others receiving points were Wake Forest, 21; Missouri, 15; Cornell, 9; Duke, 7; Santa Clara, Texas and Georgia Tech, each 6; Alabama and Appalachian State, each 5; Nevada, 4; Illinois, 3; Pittsburgh and Canisius, each 2.

Griffin-Lee Battle Tops Prep Card

By JACK JACKSON

Griffin's Gold Wave, primed to avenge last season's 14-7 upset at the hands of Robert E. Lee, invades Thomaston tonight to battle the Rebels in the feature game of a light pre-Thanksgiving North Georgia prep card.

The Rebs' victory last Fall knocked Jim Cavan's crew from the NGFA title. It was Griffin's only league defeat of the season.

This time, the Gold Wave is again the favorite, on the strength of seven victories against only one defeat and one tie, but the Rebs have won three straight games, including a 19-6 victory over Class AA Baker Village a week ago.

Griffin lost only to LaGrange and played Gainesville to a scoreless tie. In addition, the Wave spoiled Decatur's bid for an undefeated season with a 7-6 upset on the Bulldogs' home field. Lee, on the other hand, dropped six straight before trimming Americus three weeks ago.

Red Roberts and Charles Hopper provide the defense-minded Gold Wave with a stout forewall, and Bobby Dunn, fleet all-star hopeful, is Cavan's chief offensive threat. Lee hopes rest on backs Bethel Ingram and Delmas Whitten and tackle Marion Gaddy.

One of the other two games on tonight's slate has a very important bearing on the Class C-Region Three title. Eatonton can sew the crown up by defeating Monticello, with a Monticello victory leaving the door open for Washington or Forsyth. The game is slated for Eatonton. The only other game tonight finds Clarkesville at Cornelia in a B game.

Tomorrow's card features the Marietta-Cartersville clash at Cartersville in the morning; Model at Calhoun in an afternoon game which offers Ken Moore his final shot at Tommy Woodlee's scoring record, and such traditional frays as Athens-Gainesville, Rockmart-Cedartown and Lincolnton-Washington.

Berry Beats Oglethorpe U.

MOUNT BERRY—Berry College's basketball team, held to a two-point halftime advantage, exploded in the second half to defeat Oglethorpe University, of Atlanta, 68-43, before an overflow crowd here last night.

Ben Lorenz, who led the Petrel scoring with nine points, paced a surge in the final two minutes of that first half which sent the visitors out at intermission trailing by 26-24, but in the second half, Berry capitalized on loose defensive play and ragged passing by Oglethorpe to pull away.

Morris led Berry's scoring with 14 points, following by Lucas with 11 and Dorgon with 10.

Bulldogs Best Everywhere But Along Ground--Dodd

By GEORGE TISINGER

With Coach Bobby Dodd becoming more and more convinced that the weather man wears a big "G" on his sweater, the Yellow Jacket top coach took his players into the gym yesterday to escape the driving rain and the lakes which have taken the place of practice fields.

With one eye cocked at the dripping sky, Dodd let loose with the following statement regarding the Bulldogs of Georgia who face his Jackets next Saturday afternoon on Athens' Sanford Field.

"We think," Dodd said, "that Georgia has us outclassed in every department with the possible exception of the running game. We believe that our running game may be on a par with that of the Bulldogs; but just look at the rest of it."

He went on to explain that Joe Geri was far the outstanding kicker of any that are apt to appear in the game Saturday.

"Geri has been consistent and much better than our kickers all season," he said. "We had hoped that Buster Humphreys and Frank Ziegler could improve on their kicking as the season went along, but it seems that they still haven't done a great job."

Humphreys is Tech's top kicker now with an average for the year of 36.5 yards. Ziegler's average is 36.1 yards.

"With Johnny Rauch passing at us," the boss coach continued, "we are going to be outgunned there, too. There's just no getting around the fact that Rauch is one of the best passers in the Conference and maybe more.

"They have a fine line which will outweigh us all the way along and they have a record of having given their opposition fits so far this season.

So it looks like the running end of the game is our only chance to compare with them. Geri is a great runner and John Tillitski is one of the better running fullbacks anywhere. There are others, too, but if anywhere at all we believe we have them on speed and maybe that will give us an even break with them in the running department."

Figures released yesterday show that Tech's Bob McCoy has netted 352 yards this year for an average of 8.8 a try. Next man on the Jacket roster in net yards gained is Frank Ziegler who has averaged 4.2 yards while netting 264 yards.

The cast was cut from Ziegler's broken right hand yesterday and, though the paw was bound tightly in tape, he was getting the feel of the ball and things were looking better for him to get in some playing time in the game Saturday.

Dodd said that was his fervent hope that the skies would clear and the ground would dry enough for the Jackets to get out this afternoon and take part in a bit of defensive scrimmaging. It is the last day that they can afford to try any rought stuff before meeting their blood enemies from Georgia.

The practice tomorrow--will be held in the morning to give the freshmen free sway for their annual game Thanksgiving Day afternoon with the Athens Bullpups. Then after their usual Friday afternoon limbering up in Grant Field the Varsity Jackets will be on their own.

That weatherman, though, who has hindered full scale outdoor practice so far this week could be a big factor in what ultimately happens Saturday afternoon over in the Classic City.

Bowl or Bowled Over!

Muddy Scrimmage Ends Rough Work for Georgia

By F. M. WILLIAMS
Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS—Georgia's Bulldogs splashed through rain and ankle-deep mud in a short but ferocious defensive scrimmage yesterday that ended rough work for the season's final game against Georgia Tech on Sanford Field Saturday.

Coach Wallace Butts was hesitant about scheduling the rough work but he said afterwards, "We just had to get it in despite the chance we were taking on getting someone hurt."

As it turned out the only casualty was Nick Feher, sturdy left tackle, who has been one of the brightest sophomore stars on the Georgia team this year.

Feher suffered a broken cartilage in his nose but will play against the Jackets.

Coach Butts was as pleased with the scrimmage as he ever is, but he feared the conditions had a good bit to do with the way the varsity stopped the freshmen running Tech formations.

"About all we can do the rest of the week," he said afterwards in the dressing room, "is to talk. The rough work is over.

"It would be nice if the weather would clear up so we could run through our offense for timing but it doesn't look like we'll get a chance."

Georgia feels that it can match Tech in all positions except end. But, as one fellow put it, the Jackets have six flankmen who would be regulars here and that's a pretty good advantage.

The odds makers' choice of the Bulldogs as a seven-point favorite is also a little hard for the coaches especially to understand.

"Tech lost two games this year and both times they beat themselves by fumbling deep in their own territory," it was pointed out. "Until the Tennessee game the Jackets hadn't made a single mistake all season that hurt them.

"We can't count on them making any mistakes this week. We know that Tech will go out to play harder and better than it has at any time this season."

Only man to miss the last rough work was Bobby Walston, the pass catching end who suffered a slightly banged up ankle against Furman last week. Walston was in the training room all day for treatment. He'll play Saturday.

ONCE BASEBALL'S 'BAD BOY'

Hack Wilson, National League Homer King, Dies

BALTIMORE—(AP)—Lewis (Hack) Wilson, baseball's one-time roly-poly "bad boy" whose name got on top of the batting records and stayed there, died yesterday.

At the age of 48, just 18 years after completing the biggest year of any National League home run slugger, the Hackenschmidt succumbed in city hospital.

His last illness was diagnosed as internal hemorrhages complicated by a condition similar to pneumonia.

In 1930, with the Chicago Cubs, Wilson hit 56 home runs. No National League hitter has ever equaled that number. He even outslugged Babe Ruth of the Yankees that year.

In the same great season, Hack batted in 190 runs and that figure still stands as tops for the major leagues. It beat the 175 batted in by Lou Gehrig of the Yankees in 1927.

Only three players, all American Leaguers, surpassed Wilson in home-run hitting for a single season. They were Ruth with 60, and Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Foxx with 58 apiece.

Hack's life in the major leagues covered exactly 10 years and it had plenty of color. He was in and out of one kind of trouble or another during most of his five years with the Cubs. They finally gave him the big "good-bye" in 1931.

Wilson then had a spell with Brooklyn but wound up in 1934 with the Philadelphia Phillies, who had him only a month before handing out a release.

After a few years running a sporting goods store in Martinsburg, W. Va., where he began his baseball career, Wilson turned up as a night club impressario in Chicago in 1939.

He reached Baltimore in 1942 as a tool plant worker with the Glenn L. Martin Company. After the war he held various odd jobs and early this year landed as a laborer with the City Parks department. In the summer he was made manager of a swimming pool.

He had suffered fainting spells lately and on October 4 went to a hospital for treatment of a head cut suffered when he fell out of bed.

Wilson's last public appearance was on "We, the People" radio show in New York last Tuesday. At that time he gave words of advice to the younger generation to heed the advice of their elders and to save their money.

Hack always was remembered for his great year with the Cubs but he also had the distinction of being the "man McGraw forgot." It happened this way:

Wilson, born in Ellwood City, Pa., in 1900 and a former coal miner, joined the Martinsburg team of the Blue Ridge League in 1921 after some semipro experience.

Two years later he went to Portsmouth in the Virginia League. He hit .388 in 1923 and the New York Giants thought well of that. He made a good start at the Polo Grounds but went into a slump and John McGraw finally sent him to Toledo.

The Giants somehow allowed the option to lapse and the Cubs got Wilson in 1926. He hit .321 that year and went on to the peak in 1930 when his batting average was .356.

For the 1931 season, the Cubs upped Hack's salary to $33,000 but his average dropped to .260 and his home runs numbered but 13.

He was suspended in September, 1931, for breaking training and Owner William Wrigley said Hack would never again wear a Cub uniform.

He was handed over to the St. Louis Cardinals, who wanted him only for trading purposes. He went to Brooklyn and played in 1932 for $16,500, had an indifferent season and got only a $9,000 offer the next year.

At last the Dodgers dropped Hack and his big league career ended in Philadelphia.

He is survived by his son, Bobby, a student at Miami University in Coral Gables, Fla., and his second wife, Hazel, with whom he resided in a downtown apartment here.

JACK ROBERTS, GAINESVILLE ACE, TO ENTER GEORGIA

GAINESVILLE—(AP)— Jack Roberts, Gainesville High School halfback, will play football for the University of Georgia next year.

Roberts, named to many All-Star teams at the close of the 1947 season, is one of the State's top prep baseball pitchers as well. In the State tournament last spring, he bested Thomaston's famed Hugh Frank Radcliffe.

The Red Elephant star signed a Georgia grant-in-aid Monday night.

Louis To Meet Godoy Dec. 14

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Promoter Herman Taylor announced yesterday he had signed World Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis for a six-round bout with Arturo Godoy of Chile at Convention Hall, Dec. 14.

Taylor said the fighters will wear gloves weighing 12 ounces or less. The Municipal Auditorium will be scaled for a crowd of 12,000 and a gate of around $40,000, Taylor added.

Louis and Godoy have met four times. The Champion knocked out the South American in the eighth round and outpointed him in a 15-rounder in 1940. Last year they met in two exhibitions at Mexico City and Santiago, Chile.

Tulane Goes Easy as LSU Takes Heavy Workout for Saturday Clash

Condensed From AP, UP, INS Wire Reports.

Tulane took it easy while L. S. U. held a rough scrimmage yesterday as the two ancient rivals prepared for their traditional clash Saturday at Baton Rouge.

The Greenies ran through kick-off and punt return drills, and Coach Henry Frnka doesn't plan any rough stuff this week. He has four key men slightly injured and doesn't want to take any further chances. On the bruised list are Quarterback Joe Ernst, Halfback George Kinek, Fullback Bill Svoboda and End Hank Watkins. They should all be ready by game time.

Gaynell Tinsley's Bayou Tiger, fresh from a surprising upset of Alabama, should be in top physical condition for the clash, with both Bobby Clegg and Billy Baggett, injured in the Tide tilt, slated to be ready.

Elsewhere in Dixie, Mississippi State took it easy also, and Coach Allyn McKeen doesn't plan any scrimmages this week. The Maroons tie up with Ole Miss Saturday. . . . At Ole Miss, Johnny Vaught sent his Rebs into the rain for a lengthy scrimmage session. . . . Florida's Gators, hoping to defeat Alabama Saturday in Tuscaloosa, face a 14-year-old jinx. For a Gator club hasn't won over five games in a season in that period and the current team already holds a 5-4 record. . . Auburn got in its first rough work in eleven days and Coach Earl Brown was pleased with the results. The Tigers meet undefeated Clemson in Mobile Saturday. . . . Bear Bryant fears that his Kentucky Wildcats, riding the crest of a comeback campaign that has seen them beat Marquette, Florida and Cincinnati, and the Villanova and Tennessee in the past five weeks, are ripe for an upset at the hands of Miami Friday night in the Orange Bowl. The 'Cats ride into Atlanta by train tomorrow morning, then take a plane for the rest of the route. . . . Alabama, seeking to rebound again, sharpened its offense in a long scrimmage at Tuscaloosa.

THE BOWL ROUND-UP — Indications that Oregon would be favorable toward an Orange Bowl bid came when the Ducks revealed that they had turned down two invites to smaller Bowls. They were the Harbor Bowl at San Diego and the American Legion's proposed Dec. 18 game at Los Angeles . . . Lafayette College, of Easton, Pa., has refused a bid to El Paso's Sun Bowl. The reason was not given by the school's athletic board. Players had earlier expressed a desire to make the trip.

BRIEF NOTES — Happy Chandler has summoned Leo Durocher and Freddie Fitzsimmons for a conference during the Chicago Winter Baseball meeting to explain Fitzsimmons' hiring as a coach with the Giants . . . A. W. (Slick) Morton, coach at VMI, has criticized a professional football scout for approaching Bobby Thomason, his ace passer, and encouraging Thomason to sign a contract which would have been kept secret until the boy's graduation in June. He did not protest to the National League (the scout was from an unidentified NFL team) but said that he would if any other attempt to sign Thomason was made . . . Armed worked out at Hialeah yesterday in the first step of an attempted comeback. He will be nominated for the Widener Handicap . . . Clarence Picou rode five winners at Bowie yesterday making his total for eight days 22 . . . Halfback Bob Good, and Tackle Jim Winkler, of Texas A and M, who close their collegiate careers against Texas tomorrow, have accepted invitations for the East-West game in San Francisco . . . George Kershaw, Colgate end, has been added to the squad for the Miami All-Star game Christmas Night. He'll play for Herman Hickman, who now has six men lined up . . . Eight MIT students have been expelled for a planned explosion which would have initialed the Harvard Stadium turf during last week's Yale-Harvard game. They had planted wires under the field and planned to explode them with a fuse, making the letters "MIT." Police caught the student who was to set off the blast after workmen had found the wires . . . Oklahoma thought about a bowl bid and ran through a listless drill for their game with the Oklahoma Aggies Saturday . . . Navy worked on its offense in preparation for the Army game at Philadelphia this week-end.

WEST POINT PLAYS NEWNAN FOR TITLE TOMORROW NIGHT

WEST POINT—West Point High and Newnan High, tied for the leadership in Region 35, Class B, will meet tomorrow night in LaGrange for the Region title.

The Pointers, coached by Carlton Lewis, former Georgia Tech baseball and basketball star, are undefeated this season, while Newnan hasn't lost a league game.

The winner will meet the Region 3N champion—Lafayette—for the right to play Monroe or Toccoa in the North Georgia finals.

Kirkwood Tigers to Play Thomaston Alumni Friday

The Kirkwood Tigers, a local independent football team, will play the Thomaston High School alumni at Thomaston Friday night starting at 8 o'clock.

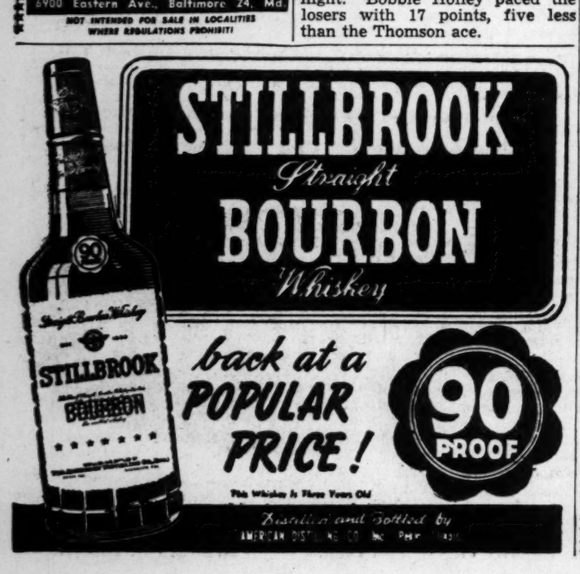

Krafts Defeat Optimist Alumni Cagers, 50-48

In the feature game last night of the City Recreation Department basketball games at the Junior Optimist Club on Bankhead Highway Kraft Foods defeated the Optimist Alumni, 50 to 48, in an overtime game.

The regulation time ended with the score tied at 48-all. Johnny Dobbs, high-point getter, with 21 points, shot the winning basket for Kraft.

YMCA League

Cascade Methodists beat Aheba, 33-25, Sons of Pericles trimmed Rex DeMolay 41-18, and Tractor Machinery downed Greek American League, 42-20 in the YMCA basketball league last night at the YMCA gym. Tonight's games are 7:30, Rich's vs. Naval Reserve, 8:30, Bailey's Girls vs. North Avenue; 9:30, Atlanta "Y" vs. Arena Rebels.

Round Robin System Would Aid Preps

By JESSE OUTLAR

The seven schools which compose what is generally referred to as the City League have, in the short span of two years, developed healthy sports rivalries.

As a result you find keen competition in all events involving City League foes. And it's a very encouraging trend, for the players and school supporters get more kick out of a victory over an arch-rival than they do by beating just another opponent.

In fact, it might be wise for Georgia's 16 regions to seriously consider the plan which makes the City League tick.

It's very simple. Every school must play other loop members during the season. It's the same system employed in the Southwest Football Conference and everyone knows what a rugged circuit they operate. In other words, the round-robin method.

We understand Sam Burke and several GHSA officials have given some thought to the plan.

Among other things, it would abolish the absurd "optional method" now employed, which enables a team in one region to win the championship in its own loop by licking an outside foe.

Also, it would simplify the arranging of schedules. A task which many coaches and athletic directors find rather difficult.

Still another advantage would be the elimination of so many playoffs. With region members meeting during the season, chances of ties would diminish.

Despite several rough spots, the Regional system has definitely been a boon to prep football in its first year. And the round-robin method seems to be what is needed to polish up some of those rough edges.

Peanut Bowl

Officials of the Peanut Bowl in Columbus will scout three prep games this week which may have important bearings on the selection of teams for the New Year's Day battle.

Five scouts will be in the stands for the Region Four Class A playoff scrap between Decatur and LaGrange at Grady Stadium Friday night. Incidentally, that game promises to be one of the outstanding attractions seen on a Greater Atlanta gridiron this season.

The Columbus folks will also take in the Fitzgerald-Tifton Thanksgiving game at Fitzgerald. These two elevens will decide the Class A Region Two crown.

And they'll have a representative at Charleston, S. C., for the Cooper River High - Charleston, tussle. Cooper River, of North Charleston, trounced Lanier, of Macon, in the Peanut Bowl last year.

Georgia Five Is Lacking In Reserve Strength

By BOB CHRISTIAN

ATHENS—Reserve strength is the big worry for Basketball Coach Ralph Jordan as the Georgia Bulldogs pull into the 10-day period before the opening clash, Dec. 3, with Clemson here.

The Bulldog mentor by no means is down and out over this year's prospects but he quickly admits that reserves will have a lot to do with the success of the 1948-49 quintet.

Jordan said. "At least we'll have more experience this time and that beat us last year, when four freshmen were in the lineup most of the season and somehow won 18 of 27 regular season games. I only hope we can find someone who will help us enough to do as well this time."

Heading the pack of candidates seeking first string berths are seven letter men, headed by Bob Healey at forward. The Hewlett, L. I., junior is a deadly set shot artist who led the conference in scoring last season. His running mate probably will be Earl Davis, aggressive Youngstown, Ohio, sophomore, who, Jordan says, "should help a lot this year." Dick (Slats) Thomas, another second year man, is the number one reserve.

Joe Jordan, lightning-fast guard, is a cinch for another starter's berth, aided by E. L. Rainey, one of last season's most capable substitutes, in place of Morgan Harvill. Jordan gained plenty of respect around the league last year as a ball stealer par excellence and ability to hit the hoops while driving with speed. He was fifth in Conference scoring.

J. B. Farr, who did not play basketball last year but was previously a letter winner, and Ryle Tatum, Brewton-Parker Institute graduate, are expected to handle relief duty at the guards. Both, however, are in need of more experience before they can be counted on for topnotch service.

Center, one of the big weaknesses last year, will be handled by Bob Schloss, six-foot eight-inch sophomore, and Al Fabian, a senior from Gary, Ind. Some help may come from Jesse Fox, six-foot seven-inch graduate of West Georgia Junior College.

Other than that, the Bulldog cage mentor has little to say. "I can't say whether we'll be as good as last year or not. It's a sure fact that some reserves must be found. Maybe two or three of the 'white shirts' will come through. If so the picture will be brighter, but right now we are starting with nothing more than a pretty good five."

Beau Jack Kayoes Chuck Taylor in 3d

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Beau Jack, two-time former lightweight champion now campaigning in the welterweight ranks, smashed young Chuck Taylor, of Coalport, Pa., bandy legged with a bolo punch to win on a technical knockout in two minutes, 43 seconds of the third round last night at Convention Hall.

Sports Arena Games

Local 34 defeated Inman Park, 67-32, Buckhead Appliance beat Ford Motors, 39-36, and Southern Bell downed Georgia Sports Goods, 34-30 in the men's basketball league at Sports Arena last night.

Dr. Nourse's Two-Way Assignment

President Truman has named Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, Chairman of his Economic Advisory Council, to direct the planning of the anti-inflation program to be presented the Eighty-First Congress in January.

Dr. Nourse, one of the nation's best-known economists, is qualified by long years of experience as well as unsurpassed insight into the nation's present economic condition. But there is every present indication that his probable success in his new undertaking will stem, not from his own capabilities, great though they be, but from the fact that inflationary pressures seem quite definitely to be subsiding.

A leveling-off has been apparent for some time in the entertainment field, and the sale of luxury items seems finally to be dropping.

The cost-of-living index has shown a slight decline for the past several months.

Retail sales were off in some departments of business for the first two weeks of November.

The stock market is off; used cars are down; real estate in past months has not moved as rapidly as it did for a time.

And, as if in recognition of these deflationary straws in the economic wind, the Federal Reserve Board has announced that it is holding its rediscount rate at 1¼ percent instead of raising it as anticipated.

We have no doubt, as aforesaid, that Dr. Nourse's recommendations will, if enacted by Congress, serve further to retard inflation.

But Dr. Nourse's task will be much easier than that of his predecessors. At long last our economy seems to be stabilizing. Indeed, by the time the Eighty-First Congress convenes in January, its main assignment may be to insure that we do not go into precipitate deflation.

A couple of slower-than-anticipated weeks in the nation's department stores do not mean a recession any more than one swallow means a Spring. But if he's as adequate an economic adviser as his reputation indicates, Dr. Nourse will include in his reading during the next few weeks any available textbooks on such subjects as "Shocks, And How to Cushion Them."

A Real Builder Passes On

Dr. Andrew Clayton Ritchie is dead at 80, and with him passes an intelligence and an energy which leaves behind many evidences of immortality in the lives of men and this State.

He was always a worker and a builder and his building was done in the lives of people. A native of Rabun County, he worked his way through the University of Georgia and through Harvard University. He had the inspiration for the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee School, the first school in America designed to educate people to be able to meet the problems of their own community. His idea of adult education was to teach the family unit and at the same time bring along the youths of the mountains. It was an unusual school, but it works and it keeps on working. The evidence of its efficiency and the soundness of its method is evident in the mountains it serves and in the lives of many families there. In his last year of life he completed a history of Rabun County, a work of merit and value. He was in the real meaning of the word a great man and a builder of men.

Segregation Isn't the Issue

Numerous Federal Court decisions in recent months have shown conclusively that the South cannot continue to deny equal opportunity for education to Negroes.

While some Southerners have feared the eventual impact of these decisions would mean Negroes must be admitted to all schools on a nonsegregated basis, The Constitution has held equal educational facilities to be the only way by which our traditional social pattern can be preserved.

The decision of a three-judge Federal Court in Oklahoma City Monday appears to support our contention. The Court denied the plea of G. W. McLaurin, a Negro, that he be allowed to attend classes on a nonsegregated basis. McLaurin sometime ago won the right to attend the University of Oklahoma, but school authorities ordered him to sit in an adjoining room which permits him to see and hear the professors.

The Court ruled McLaurin is receiving equal educational opportunities with those of white students, adding that it is "within the power of the State to recognize racial distinctions between its citizens and to classify them."

In other words, segregation within the State is no issue insofar as the Federal Courts are concerned. Had Oklahoma possessed equal educational facilities in a Negro school, the Court's ruling suggests there would have been no basis for its previous order permitting McLaurin to attend the University.

The Court could hardly have been clearer on this point. Segregation of the Negro student "based upon racial distinctions and recognized and enforced by the regulations of the University of Oklahoma, rests upon a reasonable basis, having its foundation in the public policy of the State, and does not, therefore, operate to deprive the plaintiff of equal protection," it declared.

The decision will be a blow to those die-hards like Walter White of the NAACP. It will be, too, a challenge to the South which should busy itself to provide equality of educational opportunity for Negroes in the assurance that if this is done there is little likelihood our long-standing social fabric will be upset.

Are Americans Losing Their Ingenuity?

Whether volume of patent applications is a measure of technological advancement is a moot question. However, anyone who has as much stake in technological advancement as the capital goods manufacturer may have reason to be concerned about the downward trend. The all-time high was reached in 1929, with 94,738, including designs and reissues. During the depression there was a decline of almost 40 percent. Not until 1946 did patent applications approach the 1929 figure, and then, strangely, they began to decline again.

Patent applications in the past have risen and fallen roughly with business activity except that there is always a sharp decline during war years, probably because would-be inventors are otherwise occupied. Had the historic pattern been followed, the 1929 peak would have been surpassed before the war and the postwar volume would be substantially higher than any previous peak. Such is not the case, by far.

There is further food for thought in a similar leveling off or decline in patent applications in Great Britain at about 1910. This paralleled the technological decline in Great Britain. There were more than 30,000 applications for British patents in 1910 and only about 20,000 per year throughout the 1930s. The figures seem to indicate that a condition which set in in Great Britain about 1910 may have been begun in the United States in 1930.

Many reasons have been advanced to explain the decline in the United States, among them the following:

1. The standard of invention has risen. Patent Office examiners today are more strict than they were a generation ago. A rebuttal to this is that the comparison is of applications, not of grants. After about 1915 there was a great widening of the spread between applications and grants—a large proportion of applications was rejected—but this did not seem to discourage applicants.

2. There is also widespread feeling that patent protection of inventions has suffered seriously from adverse court decisions in recent years. Only rarely is a patent held to be valid if its validity is an issue in either a district court or the United States Supreme Court.

3. Fewer foreigners apply for patents in the United States today than when countries like Germany, England, France and Italy had relatively free capitalistic economies. However, in the 1930s applications by foreigners accounted for only about 12 percent of the total volume.

4. Concentration of manufacturing in big companies, some say, tends to make patents less important. This contention is bolstered by testimony before congressional committees where it has been shown repeatedly that patents are far more important to small companies than large. A patent is one of the few instruments of competition for a small manufacturer, whereas a large company has many.

5. Slow response from the Patent Office on applications may tend to discourage dealings with it. Today more than 200,000 applications are awaiting action, more applications than are received in two years.

6. Some cite the innumerable difficulties of starting a new business as an important reason why there are not more patent applications. A generation ago a business-minded mechanic or engineer with an idea could start a business based on his patent, and that has been the origin of thousands of American companies. Today such a man looks at taxes, government regulations, union labor problems and similar hazards, including the complexity of modern technology, and decides to remain an employee.

While some of these factors may discount volume of patent applications as a measure of technological advancement, most of them tend to confirm it and explain why patented technology is not increasing as rapidly as formerly. Whether this indisputable decline in patent applications is a straw in the wind portending technological stagnation such as has overtaken Great Britain remains to be seen.

The country would have greater cause for optimism if there were a resurgence of inventive ingenuity which would be reflected in a sharp upward trend in patent applications.

Beersheba And Some Thoughts

Reading the other day that the troops of Israel had taken Beersheba, I fell to thinking about that town as I saw it two years ago. It was pastoral and peaceful then, but the air had tension in it, as it always has had in Palestine.

You go from the slopes about Bethlehem where the roses of Sharon grow like poppies; and come first to the town of Hebron. It is fertile there in the valley and the terraces of vineyards, olives and fruit trees rise on each side.

It is desolate again, going out and down the road to Beersheba. There are the brown hills, the goats, and the black hair tents of the Bedouins. You keep thinking that when the young Christ came to the country it was already old and had on its hills and in its valleys the ruins of ancient cities. At Beersheba there are towns which have been dug from the earth that date back to more than 3,000 years before the birth of Jesus at Bethlehem.

Beersheba The thing I remember best about Beersheba is the approach with the olive trees on the right, the road dusty with a herd of goats, and the sight of the tall, slim minaret of the mosque, rising through the haze; graceful as a young, slim dancing girl.

Now the Jews have the city and they will keep it, I imagine. Their army has fought well and has been so ably led that it won against what should have been great fighting odds. But, as it turned out, only the Arab Legion from Transjordan fought at all well against them. The army of Farouk, of Egypt, was soundly trounced. The Jews will not attempt to install a national religion. For most of them—especially the young ones—their country and their cause is their greatest religion. They are not only a new nation but a new people.

Religion It is a happy thing, I believe, that religion is increasingly extending its field of work. It is coming down out of the pulpit and going into the market place. Somehow, in the Holy Land, I was never able to think of the Christ as indoors, or as a hermit with a hermit message. I always found myself thinking, "Here is where He walked and talked and here is where He sat and looked at the sea." And I thought of Him, too, as preferring to be with people.

This is a time, I believe, when more people are praying than ever before. They are seeking a calmness of spirit and mind. There is more need for spiritual withdrawal, as there is more need for religion to go forward and grapple with the complex social problems and responsibilities of our time.

Forces To an onlooker it seems to me that religion has, with several notable exceptions, generally failed to realize the extent to which the individual is molded by both his environment and the social forces of his community and his time. Religion, by and large, has failed to meet the challenge and the influence of these forces. I do not mean this critically. One of the disturbing things about religious discussions is the many sparks struck off by such discussion. One of them almost always is, "Why be critical of religion?" This reflects, however, exactly what I have been trying to say. There are too many who look upon religion as a hermit, confined to the cave of a church building, where one must go to find religion.

A minister complained to me a short while ago that too many persons confused the church with religion. They felt that if they could put in an appearance at church once a week, that was "religion" and all there was to it. "Many of my own parishoners," he said, "make a dogma of going to church. They are there rain or shine, hot or cold. But, when I try to interest them in doing some outside work, they say to me, 'Preacher, I put all my self in going to church. That's where my religious interest lies. Get some of those who don't go to church often to do the work you want done.' It never seems to occur to them," he said, "that mere attendance at church isn't religion. Going to church may be just a habit or an experience which gratifies a psychological urge to be seen doing the right thing, or to be thought well of. Religion must be aggressive, not static; not confined to the Sunday hour."

Social How right he was I don't know. But he was concerned. Religion cannot become merely a social theory. It must also be a spiritual force. But there assuredly is a social gospel and none made that fact so plain, in lesson after lesson, as did the Nazarene who walked the land where today the graceful minarets of the fanatic Moslem faith rise against the deep blue of the Middle Eastern skies and the cry of the calls faithful to prayer in a faith which says man is doomed to his status by the will of Allah . . . a creed which says there is no social gospel.

Religion has got to walk about in the world . . . and it is trying to do so, in the name of Him who said, "Go ye into all the world. . . ."

BILLY ROSE

And Sometimes It Backfires

A few days ago I wrote a piece about blue pencils and blue noses, and one of the people who read it was Sam Grisman, the veteran showman. When I walked into Lindy's the other night Sam motioned me over to his table and wigwagged a waiter to bring another jerrycan of java.

"Them was noble sentiments you expressed," said Grisman, "but you left out one important argument against censorship—that it sometimes backfires right in der censor's face."

"It's a point that crossed my mind," I said, "but I was trying to keep the discussion on a high, intellectual plane."

"You could have grounded the plane for a couple of paragraphs," said Sam, "and mentioned a couple of foreign films which are double-featuring around the country—a mish-mosh from France called 'Passionnelle,' and the great Swedish picture, 'Torment.' Just because the censors tried to put the squitch on the French flicker it rates top billing, while 'Torment,' a much better picture, gets a single line at the bottom of the ads—'On the same program'."

"It works the same way in Legit," I two-centsed, "and Mae West and Eugene O'Neill will be glad to furnish examples."

"You don't have to bother Mae and Gene," said Grisman. "All you've got to do is ask me."

"Okay," I straight-manned, "I'm asking."

Tobacco Road "Well," said Sam, "my favorite for-instance is the play I produced 15 years ago—'Tobacco Road.' Most of the New York critics gave it two weeks, but it ran seven and a half years because a few self-appointed censors opined that it was indecent."

"Did the cops ever try to close you up?" I asked.

"Not in New York," said Sam, "but we occasionally had trouble on the road. Especially in Utica. There a finicky Mayor put his size-elevens down and told us to peddle our turnips elsewhere

"When informed of this, I hopped a train to Syracuse and got a New York State Supreme Court Judge to issue an injunction preventing the Mayor from banning our show and, just to be on the safe side, I also got injunctions against the police, fire and building departments.

"When I got back to Utica late that evening the final editions of the local papers were already on the stands and, since I had no way of getting word to the citizenry about the injunction, it looked as if there wouldn't be any customers. But when I got to the hotel where the troupe was stopping I found the backfiring had already begun. The lobby was filled with high school kids who were all het up about censorship, civil liberties and so on, and all asking if there was anything they could do to help.

"I was about to shoo them away when I got a bright idea. I picked out ten kids, hired ten rooms, tore the Utica phone directory into ten equal sections, and told my new assistants to phone everybody the show was going on as per schedule.

Alibi "At the theater, as I expected, a dozen cops barred my way and informed me the building was unsafe. I waved my injunctions, but I might as well have waved the Afghanistan flag—they smiled and said the building was still unsafe. Working fast, I located the smartest lawyer in town and told him my problem. He phoned the Supreme Court judge, told him his authority was being flouted and that the police department was acting in contempt of court

"'Tell your client to open on schedule,' said His Honor, 'and leave the rest to me.'

"Well, at 8 o'clock almost half of Utica was in front of the theater and the high school kids were on soap boxes delivering orations on the evils of censorship. At 8:15 there was a screeching of sirens and a squadron of State Troopers pulled up in front of the theater and ordered the local cops back to their pinochle games. For a moment it looked like war between Utica and the State of New York, but after a quick conference the local cops decided to call it a day.

"Of course, with that buildup we couldn't miss selling out, but we were still in the woods—our scenery was in the alley and the actors weren't made up. But we kept selling tickets and when the house was full I made a little speech and asked the audience whether it would like to see how a stage set was put together.

Performance "Well, the audience ate it up, and as the backwoods cabin was assembled before their eyes, they applauded as if they were watching a performance by the great Houdini himself. My stagehands were a tough bunch of hombres, but that night they handled the flats with a flourish and took bows after screwing in each screw.

"We finally got the play going at 10, and when the curtain dropped at 1, the audience hollered for five minutes. And next day, thanks to our pal, the censor-Mayor, we got enough publicity in the papers to sell out in the next 10 towns."

Minding His Own Business, Indeed

A North Carolina sailor is unable to understand a total stranger's action in shooting him, explaining "I was minding my own business."

That's what he gets for acting suspicious.

In these days of meddlers and busy-bodies, anybody who minds his own business is naturally suspect of being an enemy alien.

Minding one's own business is a lost art, like the selling of lightning rods.

The world has become increasingly complex in recent years. The mounting demands upon our waking hours long ago made it necessary that we jettison the more expendable of our activities and the minding of our own business was naturally among the first to go.

Imagine the naivete of this character who professes ignorance as to the cause of his misfortune, adding ingenuously: "I was minding my own business." He's lucky he was only shot and not investigated by J. Parnell Thomas and the Committeen on Un-American Activity.

Memorial to Jefferson

Editor Constitution: The American Unitarian Association is undertaking the establishment of a Thomas Jefferson Memorial Church in Charlottesville, Virginia, not far from the University of Virgina. So far as is known there is no religious memorial to this great American, and in these troubled times when the freedoms of speech, press and religion which he so strongly championed are endangered throughout the world, such a memorial seems particularly appropriate. We would like to give all admirers of Jefferson an opportunity to learn of and to contribute toward this endeavor, and are embarked upon the search for such individuals and groups.

We realize that there are liberals in the Democratic Party deeply concerned with the principles for which Jefferson stood whose interest in the man himself has come to extend beyond his party symbolism, but such individuals are of course difficult to determine. It has occurred to us that you may be able to make some suggestions in this field, in regard to either specific persons and societies, or further sources of such information.

'Real Democrats'

Editor Constitution: Most of the various editorials in the leading Southern newspapers as well as letters from their readers to the editors are admissions that our country has about run out of statesmen and is being engineered by politicians. This is a sad state of affairs.

During the recent presidential election most of those holding high elective offices in the South fell in line with the so-called Democratic Party and voted for Truman and Barkley solely because they knew that they would benefit personally from the standpoint of patronage, etc. Certainly all of us in the South know that Truman is no friend of the South and that no President or candidate for President since the Civil War has advocated as much vicious legislation aimed at the South as has Truman, who was formerly a member of the Pendergast gang. Still most of our elected officials from the South went down the line because they knew that if this gang was elected they would benefit, themselves, personally.

Those who advocated the States' Rights Democratic platform were the real Democrats. The so-called Democrats were the ones who bolted and not the States' Righters. It doesn't matter by what name a person goes, it's what he believes in that counts.

Oh, for real statesmen who will put principle ahead of personal gain.

Americus. E. MARVIN GOODING.

Cure All?

Editor Constitution: Can the South solve it's racial, economic and segregation problems? This question to me is just like asking can a patient cure himself of a chronic disease of long standing. A person who is so afflicted may from time to time apply home remedies or use patent medicine. But modern methods have shown he will only be patched up and the disease will not be routed until he calls in a physician to diagnose his case and write a prescription according to afflicting disease.

The South is suffering with a chronic disease of prejudice which has become complicated with discrimination and injustice. For a long time the South has been patching up with home remedies and using patent medicine in regard to her racial problems. Unless we get Federal aid or outside help it's doubtful whether the South can solve its problem along these lines.

Therefore, the President sent out sometime ago a staff or specialists to diagnose the case and the report has been made and the prescription has been written according to the majority of people North and South; they are willing to accept the medicine and have the prescription filled that will go a long way in solving our economic and racial problems.

I wonder now can our Southern congressmen afford to filibuster this issue against the expressed will of the majority of people who said by their votes for the President that they are willing to accept this treatment. Heretofore Southern congressmen have always said that they were trying to protect the will of their people, now, Democratically speaking, the majority of people have said go ahead with the program which transcends all party lines. I believe President Truman and those who will be put in leadership in Congress will carry out the will of the people, including the civil rights program.

Succession

Editor Constitution: Recalling Gene Talmadge's death and hence the uncertainties of life. Who would become President of these United States next January should both Barkeley and Truman die before then? PARKER ARNOLD.
Rome.

(Editor's Note: Under present law the Speaker of the House of Representatives would become President.)

Labor Laws

Editor Constitution: I do not look on the Taft-Hartley Law with jaundiced eyes, as I am not a member of any union nor did I vote for Mr. Truman and I don't often concur with Westbrook Pegler, although I like to read his column because, most of the time, his views are so opposed to mine and I do believe in what Thomas Jefferson said: "If there be any among us who wish to dissolve this Union or change its republican form, let them stand undisturbed, as monuments of the safety with which error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."

Pegler asks why many of we the people want to repeal the Taft-Hartley Law and says we are stupid if we do.

In reply, collective bargaining now plays a vital part in our economy. Today some 50,000 union contracts protect the wages and living standards of 15,000,000 million workers and their families. Those contracts are the backbone of democracy. Neither the letter of the Taft-Hartley Law nor the spirit in which it was written recognizes these fundamental realities. Therefore, why not repeal the Taft-Hartley Law and consider new labor legislation and procedures. It is common knowledge in Washington that many of the men who voted for this bill admitted that it contains a number of unsound provisions which must be changed. One of the worst evils of the Taft-Hartley Law is that most of it's unjust provisions are so cleverly devised from a legalistic standpoint that no relief will be provided labor from tests of law. The Taft-Hartley Law attempts to force settlement of social and economic issues into the strait-jackets of court procedures. The whole history of the American labor movement shows that both workers and employers have always opposed such attempts. Now more than ever, we need to preserve and strengthen the basic principle of voluntary action which must and should characterize employer-employee relationships.

Once a government starts to exercise the power to direct the relations which exist between supposedly free workers and free employers it is not far from a regimented economy.

Yes, Mr. Pegler, we should repeal the Taft-Hartley Law which fails to meet the social and economic needs of a free people.

Lobby Investigation Needed

WASHINGTON—It is no secret that big money talks in politics, sometimes loudly for awhile, then for a time not so loudly. It began to raise its voice effectively again in the last Congress. Its agents, known colloquially as lobbyists, swarmed into this city like camp-followers in the wake of the Republican army that moved in to take control of the Eightieth Congress after the party's victory in the 1946 congressional elections. It looked like easy pickings, and it was. Lobbyists were able to knock on many doors and get a hearing for big interests they represented because of the handsome contributions those big interests had made to the Republican triumph.

They did fairly well, all in all, in a preliminary sapping operation that weakened some New Deal reforms and laid the dynamite for others they hoped to topple down with a big bang in the next Congress which, at the time, most everybody thought would be Republican, too.

It has turned out differently, even with everything that big money threw into the pot. But this is only a reason for renewed activity by big money, for it sees a real threat now. The President has a Congress much more sympathetic with his program than the last, or than the Seventy-ninth Democratic Congress before that. Lobbyists thrive on a tough one. They can draw more heavily on the home treasury.

Every so often it's a good idea to explore the influence of big money on politics and see how it's done. For the sake of a healthy democracy it's salutary to take the system apart and see how it ticks.

Consequently, what is needed is an old-fashioned investigation of lobbyists and lobbying, and the interests back of them, such as we have not had around here for some time now. Lots of people are suggesting this, most recently, for example, the Executive Council of the International Association of Machinists. It adopted a resolution at a meeting here recommending a broad investigation by a joint congressional committee into all sorts of special interest lobbies which, the Council estimated, had spent $12,000,000 and probably more to influence the last Congress.

The last big lobby investigation we had around here was that conducted by former Sen. Hugo Black, Democrat, Alabama, now Supreme Court Justice, into the utility lobby against the public utility holding company bill in 1935. The utilities, incidentally, would stand another careful scrutiny now, for they were very effective in the Eightieth Congress. Before that, in 1931, there was the Caraway Lobby Investigating Committee that devoted special attention to tariff lobbyists but went into other fields, too.

It would be very helpful to the President's program to keep such an investigation going continuously while that program was being presented to Congress. That was the technique of the now famous Truman Committee, which kept its eye constantly on the defense program during the war to ferret out inefficiencies, special favors and corruption. Like that inquiry, the projected investigation would be a mirror held up constantly before Congress and the public.

Such an inquiry should go into the utility lobby to see how it was able to restrict public power expansion in the last Congress. It should go into the real estate lobby which, through its influence with only a handful of powerful House leaders, bottled up the Taft-Ellender-Wagner long-range housing bill so Congress could not vote on it. It should go into the oil lobby which tried to get a law removing valuable tidal oil lands from control by the Federal Government and putting it back in the States, where exploitation by private interests is much easier.

It should go into the railroad lobby conducted by the Association of American Railroads that put through the Bulwinkle-Reed Bill exempting that giant industry from anti-trust laws. A part of the amazing story of that lobby came out in exhibits submitted by the Justice Department to the Federal Court at Lincoln, Neb., but this was not widely publicized, and the public should have the whole story. There are others that should be exposed, including the medical lobby against President Truman's health program.

THE QUESTION:

What is your idea of trimmings to go with the Thanksgiving turkey?

THE ANSWERS:

MRS. BEATRICE JONES, Swainsboro, Ga., housewife—Cranberry sauce. I think it takes the dressing to make the turkey more tasty. I haven't planned my menu for we aren't planning to be at home. Those are two of the main things that should go with the turkey. I'd say pecan or pumpkin pie for dessert. In other words, I'm just in favor of an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner.

MRS. W. M. HAMMOND, Marietta, Ga., housewife — Oh — you mean like the cranberry sauce? Of course, wild rice. That's part of Thanksgiving. Then—the traditional mincemeat pie—and lots of good wines, and hot black coffee. Oh! I'm getting hungry just talking about these. However, with twins, I won't have time to think of Thanksgiving. My main theme is Christmas.

MRS. A. F. WILLIAMS, 1028 Grand Ave., N. W., bookkeeper—Cranberry sauce. I like black-eyed peas and turnip greens on Thanksgiving. It's what I usually have. It might seem funny to a lot of people, but that's what I like—and everybody in my family. I think you should have pumpkin pie because everybody does. I think it's always nice to have a lot of nuts. Thanksgiving is a quiet day that I like to spend at home.

MRS. HARRIS THURMOND, Athens, Ga., evening chief operator, telephone company—Cranberry sauce. Of course, you'd stuff your turkey. Peach pickles — fruit cake with the dinner. Creamed asparagus. Oh! I can just think of numbers of things—nuts, ambrosia. That's not the way I serve it. It's just what I was thinking of to serve. Hot rolls, of course—homemade. I guess small English peas. You can use creamed potatoes with the peas. I usually use fruits and nuts, regular Thanksgiving things, for my centerpiece.

The Grass Is Getting Greener

The South will come into its own when its fields are green in Winter.—Henry Grady.

In the days of Henry Grady, a Southerner who was ahead of his time in politics as well as in agriculture, the pronouncement (or prophecy) above may have seemed cynical. There were those who sneered that, on Grady's basis, the South would never "come into its own." It would take a miracle to keep Southern fields green the year 'round.

On Mason Farm, a Federal Soil Conservation Service nursery near Chapel Hill, agriculture scientists have been working to bring about the condition called for by Grady. And the head of the Soil Conservation Service, Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, says they have succeeded.

THE MIRACLE has been passed Suiter's Grass (Kentucky 31), a grass found on the Kentucky farm of a man named Suiter, has brought it about. There is no reason now why the South's fields may not be green the year around. Dr. Bennett is jubilant. "The most important thing since the discovery of America," he calls this erosion blocking, rain-holding evergreen grass.

The doubters will doubt, of course; the primitive who have adopted modern tractors but not modern ideas will hesitate. They will remind us of the other grasses and leguminous crops that have been hailed as revolutionary and then found to be suitable only under special conditions.

But Suiter's Grass has been proved adaptable. Dr. Bennett says it has grown well in 600 counties in the Southeastern States. And nowhere, probably, is a year-round grass more needed than in the Southeastern States. Though the area has progressed amazingly in agriculture the past few years, its acreage is still riddled by erosion and its soil made sterile by the ignorance of those who till it.

TO SOME degree, the one-crop bugaboo of the South has been overcome, but still lacking in the agriculture of the South is an adequate livestock industry.

In addition to cutting down erosion, Suiter's Grass will remedy the livestock imbalance. Since cattle can eat Suiter's Grass for 12 months out of each year poorer farmers can get into the industry without the initial expense of silos and mowing machines. The maintenance of a haystack, since no haystack will be needed, will not be a problem.

This is another example of the New Agriculture building a new and more prosperous South.

Lost---a Volcano, a Sheik and a General

WASHINGTON—We've got a little unfinished business hereabouts involving a few pints of my blood, some gifts for the Sheik of Araby, a flying machine the size of a football field, an Italian volcano remodeled into a steam engine, and the pie capacity of Federal females.

All these interesting subjects, and a few more, Congress began with appropriate whoopla this year to investigate. When the plot began to thicken, the gentlemen changed the subject. This is unfair to taxpayers. They (and I mean me) want to know how the story came out.

Take this blood, donated by millions of Americans to the Red Cross during the war. The Senate Banking Committee turned up by mistake an Army general who was peddling our life fluid at $25 a pint to pale Chinese in Shanghai as a sex tonic.

The lawgivers said they'd order this starry-shouldered blood salesman back home in irons; said they'd stick splinters under his fingernails until he confessed all. Then, blank. Everybody, including the Army, seems to have forgotten the bloody one. At last reports he had been reduced in rank to colonel and still was on duty in Tokyo.

As for the Sheik, another committee of the Senate caught up with him while investigating the shipment of steel pipe for an oil works in Saudi Arabia. Turned out the American oil men were slipping gifts (unspecified) to the Sheik in Washington; the investigators promised to tell exactly what the oil moguls handed the representative of Saudi Arabia to make him happy. They never did.

The aerial behemoth, which made so many headlines a few months back, is Howard Hughes' $20,000,000 wooden job. The Senate quit worrying about it and as far as I know Hughes' lumber flying machine is withstanding the termites at San Pedro, Calif. The Senate may not care, but I'd like to see this oversized item, with seats for 400 passengers, do a little flying.

The volcano came up during proceedings of the Senate Appropriations Committee. The idea was for the Marshall Plan to hand the Italians a few millions so they could put valves and petcocks on their volcano and thereby turn the wheels of several large steam engines. Did they get the money? Is the volcano harnessed and purring peacefully? Nobody knows for sure on Capitol Hill.

Sen. William D. Langer, of North Dakota, and the cellophane-wrapped cigar, brought up the question of pie for Government clerks. In the course of his investigation of the Federal cafeterias he hauled in the management and one cherry pie. He claimed that for 15 cents a slab, they cut too many slices from each pie. The pieman said they did not, either. And there, I regret to report, the matter rests.

I'd like also to know what ever happened to Sen. Homer Ferguson's inquiry into the two Pan-American highways (one seems to have been built because of a slight error) in Guatemala. There's the little matter of votes for sale in four States, but whether the Elections Committee ever will get around again to that is problematical. And as for the Federal Bureau of Reclamation, Rep. Forrest Harness, of Indiana, who was investigating it, wrote Commissioner Mike Straus the day before election a number of questions. The Hon. Mike said that he'd be delighted to answer them as soon as the Congressmen returned to Washington. Rep. Harness doesn't seem to be returning. He lost.

How Much Is Too Much for a Lamb Chop?

Now that it is all over, I wish Mr. Truman would tell me where he saw those 75-cent lamb chops that he talked so much about. For a long time, fair to good lamb chops have been steady to brisk at $2 a unit in the humble inn where room-service mothers my modest wants and we seldom speak of steak because even a threadbare little sheet of senile bull-muscle of a size and texture suitable for black-eye therapy is $3.50. The regular steaks are practically out of print because they start at $4 for the minute version, which is not a measure of time, but an old French proverb meaning: "How did you find the steak? Oh, I found it under one of the peas." Beyond that, steaks go into the metaphysical realm of the noncommittal maybe. It is not a subject for the waiters, but one for agents and negotiation.

If you are really serious, the thing to do is go to a licensed broker and get him to scuffle around and bring in a set of offerings. Even the Stork Club doesn't carry steak as an article of trade these days and you will understand what that means when you remember that the Stork has been practically the inner sanctum of the State Department, the FBI, the Supreme Court and the selfless secretariat of the White House for 16 years.

The menu doesn't invite your interest in steak. It snarls: "Broiled filet mignon, Baltimore, $5.00." Filet mignon means steak, but I understand the Baltimore effect is just for prestige with people who have read about historic pigging in Baltimore when Henry Mencken was in Fauntleroys and taking violin lessons. There is no such thing as a Baltimore steak, but it might as well read: "Filet mignon, Chester, Pa.," because nobody ever asks any particulars, at $5.

If Mr. Truman does know where lamb chops go for 75 cents, just what is his position on that, anyway?

It is just as silly to argue for a flat, nationwide price for a lamb chop to all classes of customers as it would be to demand a standard wage for all of us across the country. When wages are regulated by the Government, through the unions, as they are in most of the trades, there is no reason why a man who makes $125 a week should be guaranteed lamb chops at the price he paid when the same job paid only $60. He ought to pay at least twice as much for everything because whatever it is that he is producing costs the consumers roughly twice as much. In many cases, he should be made to pay an extra penalty price for his eggs, underwear and house because a large portion of his wages—say about one-third—represents sheer extortion from the consumers.

This is the money he gets for mock-work, loafing, some classes of portal-to-portal time and artificial overtime. Artificial overtime is the double-time for Saturdays which the Government helps the unions to collect for men who insist on working Saturdays but never show up on Mondays. They get one day's pay free and there are millions of them in on this. For that day's pay they produce no apartments, no automobiles or anything else.

If my arguments seem to suggest discriminatory prices under Government control and if that smacks of Fascism, I have expressed myself well. But discriminatory controls of wages in favor of certain groups are bound to inflict hardships on other bunches of people unless the same authority also compels the people getting extravagant wages to pay extravagant prices. It would be a wise criticism of the extortion of the building trades if their members had to pay six months' rent for five months' occupancy.

Your honest artisan really gets six days' pay for four days' work and even at that, his production is retarded so much that you would be generous in stating that he delivers three days' work for six days' pay. The sheeper in Montana has no way of needling into his price of lamb chops double-time for the growing that his animals do on Saturdays. I concede that he must be doing well, for he is an arbitrary fellow who will quit sheeping in a minute when he suspects that he isn't. Moreover, like all the rest of the farmers, he is now a parasite with a vested interest and the price of chops includes a heavy subsidy paid by the same Government which warned him that if he didn't re-elect Mr. T. he would be a historic ingrate.

A few years ago when alarms were rung that unions were growing too strong, the taunt always was, "Too strong for what?"

When Mr. Truman says 75 cents is too much for a lamb chop, what does he mean by too much? Too much for a man drawing $125 for four days' work? Or too much for a city girl with a dependent child or mother on $40 a week?

A Lesson In Salesmanship

Slim Jones was back in town the other day. He's a button salesman . . . and he was around to get an order from Sam Abernathy's general store.

I commented on how well and spruce he looked, and Slim says: "Well, the health is mine, but the appearance is partly the Company's doing. They want their representatives to look spruce to give the product a good name."

Smart policy, that! Like the brewers, with their program of Self Regulation. They want taverns selling beer to present a clean, orderly appearance—so they inspect them regularly, and call on the proper authorities to discipline any that might give beer a bad name.

From where I sit, the public judges by appearances. And they should! Folks with pride in their business—as the brewers are proud of wholesome American beer—should want to see it presented in clean, respectable surroundings.

DETROIT—(UP)—A slick-tongued father of four children was charged yesterday with swindling elderly widows out of their life savings in seven years of phony investment deals involving $252,000.

Arthur J. Platten, 47, six-foot, three-inch ex-University of Wisconsin football player, pleaded innocent to 12 Federal Grand Jury counts of mail fraud and violation of the U. S. Securities Act.

Assistant U. S. Dist. Atty. Joseph C. Murphy said "smooth talk" charmed 30 persons into turning over their savings to Platten. He used these funds to live royally in a swank suburb while his victims became impoverished, it is charged.

With promises of rich returns from reinvestment, Murphy said, Platten doled out meager "dividend" checks to avoid suspicion and gained social prestige by joining two exclusive Detroit clubs.

Murphy said an 87-year-old widow who turned over $27,061 in stocks to Platten now is a charwoman in a Mt. Clemens hospital. He said Platten paid her about $50 a month from her "investment."

He said Platten's tactics were to pose as an investment counselor and to operate a motor parts company and a truck firm as a "front." He said Platten preyed on his victims' sympathies with glib patter and promises of monthly, rather than quarterly, dividends.

"He was such a nice man—he always said my apple pie was so good," Murphy quoted one elderly woman victim as saying.

Murphy charged Platten's dealings had netted him $252,000 in stocks which he quickly sold, but had paid back about $50,000 in "dividends."

Murphy said the son of a 77-year-old widow of a sea captain became suspicious that Platten had fleeced his mother of $30,000 and demanded the money. Platten allegedly wrote a $5,000 check which his bank refused to cash.

Platten faces maximum penalties totaling 60 years in prison and $20,000 in fines. He immediately furnished $5,000 bond on arraignment.

Blind Children Sing Way Into Hearts of Listeners

By SHIRLEY ZIEGLER

A courageous group of blind school children gathered around a church piano last night and promptly sang away any pity that swelled in the hearts of the onlookers.

Although many of the students are totally blind and not one of them has more than 10 percent vision, they sang joyously and soon had the audience smiling with them.

Sponsored by the Grove Park Civic League and churches in the community, the 33-member Glee Club from the Georgia Academy for the Blind in Macon had come to present a concert at the Lena H. Cox School. Preceding the program the ladies class of the Fortified Hills Baptist Church feted the children at a reception in the basement of the church.

Two of the happiest adults present were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Alverson, of 671 Francis Pl., N. W., as they watched their 18-year-old son, Jimmy, sing with the chorus. Jimmy is studying piano tuning at the Academy.

Another happy couple was Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Minter, of 1410 Bankhead Ave., N. W., for their six-year-old daughter, Nancy, had come along with the Glee Club to spend Thanksgiving at home. Nancy isn't old enough to sing with the chorus yet, but she sang several impromptu solos accompanied on the piano by 17-year-old Charles Presley, of Waycross.

Competing with boys and girls with normal eyesight, Charles won the State solo championship last year and was a member of the Academy's quartet which also took first place in the State. He plans to make evangelistic singing his career.

Another Atlantan, Otis Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Booth, of 423 Kelly St., S. E., also sang with the group. The Glee Club is directed by Mrs. Ernestine Lewis. Frank Pursley, who holds a master's degree from the Juillard School of Music although he is totally blind, accompanies them. John S. Herndon, Superintendent of the Academy, made the trip with the group.

Bobby Breen To Apologize

ASHLAND, Wis. — (AP) — Singer Bobby Breen said he is "writing a letter of apology right away to all the people" involved in a false search for him while his plane was reported missing in Northwestern Wisconsin.

The 21-year-old former child movie star, interviewed by telephone at the sheriff's office here, said he was going to Hayward "to try to straighten things out there, too."

Breen spent the weekend at a Glidden, Wis., hotel after making a forced landing in a chartered plane. He and his pilot, Kenneth Thompson, were the object of a wide search by air and on the ground through snow-clogged woods during the 36 hours they spent at Glidden, Breen under an assumed name.

"I'm terribly sorry I caused everyone all that trouble," Breen said.

COURT RULES:

Race Track No Highway

The Georgia Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that a rack track could not be classed as a public highway in a case involving a Macon Woman.

Mrs. Vera M. Barker sued the Life & Casualty Company of Tennessee for $1,750 for the death of her son, Barney J. Barker.

Mrs. Barker alleged the one-mile race track in Central City Park, Macon, on which her son was killed when a race car overturned was a public highway.

The accident insurance policy she carried on her son was payable if death resulted while riding or driving on a public road.

Mrs. Barker contended the track had been turned over to the general public for use in learning to drive. However, the court in affirming a city court of Macon decision, held this did not make the track a public highway.

Anti-Mask Ordinance In Macon Called 'Weak'

MACON—(AP)—An anti-mask ordinance for the City of Macon was introduced in City Council last night.

However, several persons immediately pounced upon the ordinance and branded it as inadequate and "woefully weak."

And, final action was deferred until next week under the regular order of business of the governing body.

The ordinance, as introduced last night, will make it unlawful for persons or groups to appear on public streets with their identities partially or wholly concealed.

It makes no provision for banning wearing of masks or hoods inside a building, either public or private.

Absence of this provision was seized upon by several Maconites who have led a fight for the anti-mask ordinance. The Rev. Vernon A. Crawford, President of the Macon Ministerial Association, asked Council to insert such a provision.

However, Mayor Lewis B. Wilson said the matter will rest in the hands of Alderman L. W. Lewis and his ordinance and resolutions committee.

Asked about the possibility of another public hearing on the ordiance regarding this provision, Lewis said he "honestly don't know what the next step will be."

The ordinance makes four exceptions to the concealing of identities in public. They are:

1. Children under 14 years of age and under five feet tall dressed in Hallowe'en costumes.
2. Persons clad in Santa Claus costumes during Christmas and for four weeks preceding Dec. 25.

MAY CHECK TRUMAN PROGRAM

Fate of Curb Plan Eyed as Costs Drop

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The slight drop in the cost-of-living index raises this question:

If price declines continue, will President Truman drop his long-standing request for standby price control and rationing power?

The No. 1 White House economist, Edwin G. Nourse, told a reporter "it would be swell" if drastic anti-inflation controls were not needed, adding:

"It would be like seeing a fever chart go down. But we aren't drawing any conclusions yet."

Nourse, Chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, was named head of a cabinet-level advisory committee to draft an anti-inflation program for submission to the new Democratic Congress.

Another top official—head of one of the fiscal agencies—told reporters privately he believes inflationary currents still are stronger than the deflationary ones.

Still another White House adviser believed Mr. Truman would be pleased if he could go before Congress in January with the report that drastic measures appeared unneeded because of factors outside Government control.

But several control proposals now are being drafted by various Government agencies, to be submitted to Mr. Truman by Nov. 29 as recommended legislation.

A partial list of such requests, based on official statements and unofficial hints, includes:

Rents—Extension of controls for "at least one year" beyond Feb. 28, with tighter enforcement powers.

Credit—Enlargement of the Federal Reserve Board's control over bank credit, plus extension of consumer installment credit restraints beyond next June 30.

Materials — Extension of the "voluntarly" allocation plan beyond Feb. 28, plus mandatory powers—on a "standby" basis—to force producers to fill essential orders.

Taxes—At the least, legislation to remove "inequities" from the tax laws; at the most, an excess profits tax to discourage overpricing by penalizing high profits. Or, possibly, a boost in the upper-bracket rates on corporation earnings.

There may also be new anti-monopoly proposals.

In addition, Mr. Truman's state of the union and economic messages to Congress are expected to call for a postponement of all public works which can be deferred, to cut down on inflationary spending by both the federal and local governments.

FAMILY FASHION

Thanksgiving At the Mansion

Tomorrow at the Governor's Mansion they'll be eating turkey and the trimmings.

A great gobbler, the gift of Joe Johnson, of Donalsonville, already is in the oven and the young First Lady confessed yesterday she planned to make the day festive, in a strictly family fashion. Mrs. Eugene Talmadge will come up from Sugar Creek to feast with the younger Talmadges.

Afterwards they all plan to occupy the President's box at the Georgia Tech-Georgia freshman game. Children from the Scottish Rite Hospital, little Gene Talmadge and the three grandsons of Mrs. William Healey will be the guests of the Governor and his Lady.

Saturday, like loyal Georgia alumni that they are, they will be in Athens for the Tech-Georgia game.

PASSENGERS BORED, NOT HUNGRY

'Queen' Awaits Orders At Southampton Pier

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

ABOARD THE QUEEN ELIZABETH AT SOUTHAMPTON, England—(AP)—The world's most luxurious liner lay moored to her pier last night in a blaze of lights, strikebound with nearly 1,500 passengers for America.

Even with the best of food and entertainment the passengers were getting slightly bored at going nowhere even on their island of plenty in the middle of England's austerity.

All the Cunard Line could offer was the hope that they will be able to sail at 4:15 p. m. today—and only then if striking American longshoremen have decided by then to end their East Coast tieup.

Aboard the giant liner with its richly paneled corridors, comfortable theater and well-stocked bar there was a strange, almost unreal contrast to the drab tenements and sparsely filled shops only a few hundred yards away.

In the dining room passengers had their foot-long menus—steak, slabs of roast beef, thick slices of ham, out-of-season fruit, lobster, all kinds of dessert. Take your choice.

Ashore, it was differed. In the little eating establishments along the waterfront there was tea, sandwiches with a thin fish paste, a roll with a bit of cheese, a slice of cake. Hard to find at that.

Aboard the Queen a Londoner sipped his morning orange juice, plunged into his ham and eggs and observed:

"If this is prison, sentence me for life."

The Elizabeth was scheduled to sail last Wednesday. The strike in the States brought a three-day postponement and a plan to reroute her to Halifax.

Then a third of the Elizabeth's crew went out on a sympathy strike 70 minutes before sailing time Saturday. That was settled Monday when the Cunard Line agreed to keep the Queen in port until the New York grievances are settled.

The delay has cost the line about $140,000, and should the voyage be cancelled completely it would cost $250,000.

Atlanta Tenor Returns In Romeo Role Today

Louis Roney, Atlanta tenor, who has been acclaimed by critics and audiences throughout the eastern part of the nation since his debut here last Spring, returns home today to sing the title role in Gounod's opera, "Romeo and Juliette," at 8:30 p. m., at the Municipal Auditorium.

The young Atlanta singer will be costarred with pretty Marguerite McClelland, another Southerner from Memphis, Tenn., who will sing the role of Juliette.

The performance of the great opera, based on a Shakespearean work, will be the first operatic daventure here for both the talented singers. Miss McClelland was a runner-up for the title of "Miss America" in 1946.

Desire Defrere will direct; Walter Ducloux will be Musical Director and Diez Weismann will be concertmaster. A divertissement by Mary Martinet, ballerina, and Marc Beaudet, premier dancer, will be a feature of Act I.

Others in the cast include Edward Nyborg, Livingston Smith, William Shriner, Lizabeth Pritchett, Denis Harbour, William Wilderman, Jean Rifino and Reginald Nichols.

The opera is a feature of the Atlanta Music Club's "All-Star Concert Series," of which Marvin McDonald is Manager.

Rent Office To Move

The Atlanta Area Rent Office will offer downtown service to landlords and tenants, beginning Monday, Nov. 29, when it will be moved from its present location at 24 Pine St., N. E., to new quarters on the third floor of the Georgia Savings Bank Building at the junction of Broad and Peachtree Streets.

The new offices will be open to the public Mondays through Fridays from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Joe A. Brown, Atlanta Area Rent Director, said the move is being made for the convenience of landlords and tenants, some 2,000 of whom pay personal calls to the rent office each month. This is in addition to the great volume of business handled by mail and telephone. The Atlanta Rental Area—in which rent controls are in effect—covers Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb and Clayton Counties.

Offices of Kenneth A. Campbell, Southeastern Regional Housing Expediter, and his staff will remain at 449 West Peachtree St.

Industrial Engineers Hold Tech Meeting

Fifteen prominent Industrial Engineers of the Atlanta area met at Georgia Tech last night to discuss "The Union Attitude Toward Time Study and Wage Incentives." Discussion leader for the evening was Ross Groshog, representative of the Textile Workers Union of America.

The discussion was sponsored by the Society for the Advancement of Management. These round-table meetings are held once a month and are open to the public, according to John M. Avent, Tech professor.

Atlanta Couple Wed 59 Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lee, of 782 Oak St., S. W., today will celebrate their fifty-ninth anniversary.

Their six children, together with several grandchildren and great-grandchildren, will attend a dinner tonight in honor of the couple.

Married in Lithonia, Mr. and Mrs. Lee have lived in Atlanta 35 years. He is a retired carpenter and locksmith.

Georgia Tech Elects Slate Of Officers

Rain drew blame for keeping two-thirds of the student body away from the polls yesterday when Georgia Tech elected a slate of class officers.

Julian LeCraw, son of Sen.-Elect Roy LeCraw of Atlanta, made a successful entry into Tech politics by being elected Vice-President of the Freshman Class.

Newly-elected officers of the Senior Class include Theodore Carroll, Miami, President; Al Boissy, Macon, Vice-President; Travis Brannon, 1259 E. Rock Springs Rd., N. E., Secretary-Treasurer.

Junior Class officers are Brian Erown, Savannah, President; Witt Langstaff, Nashville, Tenn., Vice-President; Lamar Oglesby, 1074 Oakdale Rd., Secretary-Treasurer.

The Sophomores named Bruce Sams, Savannah, President; Hal W. (Fuzzy) Field, 321 Tenth St., N. Y., Vice President; Bob Terry, Ft. Pierce, Fla., Secretary-Treasurer.

Freshman officers are Kenneth Farmer, Pensacola, Fla., President; Julian LeCraw, Vice-President; Jere M. Pound, Columbus, Secretary-Treasurer.

Student Council representatives from the Freshman Class are William T. Kennedy, Opelika, Ala., Henry Holman, Jackson, Miss., and James F. McKenzie, Chattanooga, Tenn.

2 Robbery Cases Yield Arrests

City detectives have announced the solution of two robbery cases with unusual angles.

J. C. Morris, 22, Lawrenceville garage operator, has been taken into custody in connection with the knife robbery Tuesday of L. V. McMillan, of 609 Home Ave., Dets. S. E. Smith and O. T. Jones said. McMillan, a store clerk, was en route home when at Central Avenue and Mitchell Street someone held a knife to his throat and robbed him.

McMillan's wallet was found in the yard of the Fulton County courthouse where Morris will be tried for robbery, detectives said.

In the robbery of O. B. Sullivan, of 233 Garnett St., S. W., on Oct. 9 a witness volunteered that he saw three men assault Sullivan, knock him down and rob him of $5.

Yesterday Smith and Jones said they had arrested the witness, listed as Johnnie T. Cook, 35, of a Luckie Street, N. W., address, on charges of robbery. They added Sullivan, employee of a wholesale jewelry concern, had positively identified Cook as his assailant.

Wife Wins Life Struggle After Brother Is Slain

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(UP)—Bill Parrish, 21-year-old Navy yeoman, told police bitterly how he tried to kill his tiny brunette wife after slaying her brother and wounding her father and failed when she threw herself upon him and held grimly to his gun hand.

Parrish said the frail, pretty girl struggled against him for 15 minutes before he gave up. Their 22-month-old baby watched the whole struggle, screaming in his crib, Parrish said.

"I didn't want to hurt the baby, so I didn't shoot wild. But I went there to kill her and to kill myself. I would have," the five-foot seven-inch sailor told detectives.

Parrish said he shot his wife Evelyn's brother, 21-year-old Stacey Harris, because he mistook Stacey for Evelyn in the dark. Police said, however, that Evelyn had signed a statement that her husband shot Stacey after he asked Parrish "if he wasn't overstaying his leave."

Mrs. Parrish said she and Bill had been separated since last September. He came home last Saturday on leave from the Norfolk, Va., Naval Base, however. She said she thought he had come "because he was mad about my seeing another boy, and because I pawned our rings to buy milk for the baby."

Parrish walked into their home, she told police, and fired point-blank in the dark, slaying her brother instantly. Then he shot at her father. She leaped at the youth and grappled with him while her mother ran for help, Evelyn said.

"I had a hold on the gun, and I wouldn't turn it loose," she explained, looking at her bruised, swollen hands.

Six officers finally reached the Parrish house and disarmed the youth. They quoted the young mother as saying she and Parrish were married in 1945.

Police said Parrish faced charges of first degree murder, and assault with intent to kill.

Students Here To Go To Press Meeting

A delegation of 38 Atlanta high school students has been selected to attend the National Scholastic Press Convention in French Lick Springs, Ind., Nov. 26-28.

The young journalists will leave the Atlanta bus terminal at 6 a. m. tomorrow. Miss Anne Beaumont and Mrs. Katherine McKee, advisers to the school papers at Hapeville High and Hoke Smith High, will accompany them.

FRIEDMANN'S 'HOLLER' HEARD

Restoring German Press To Ex-Nazis Protested

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst.

The postwar democratic press of Germany has been caught up in a broad shift of Military Government policy toward ownership of former Nazi property. It may prove disastrous unless corrected.

When I visited Germany in September the occupation authorities were being credited with having done a first-class job of replacing the former controlled press with a new system, under license, but with thoroughly screened German editors who gave every evidence of devotion to democracy. The new publishers, using plants formerly owned by men who were subject to the denazification process, had been assured that they would be secure in their publication rights for 15 years.

Well, they are secure in their rights, but not in the very practical matter of their plant tenure. Military Government recently decided that former owners, cleared through denazification, might regain their properties by 1952. That means they can go back into the publication business on their own, rent to the present publishers or evict them as they wish.

Many of the new editors expect to find themselves without plants and with no prospect of getting new ones unless the United States see to it and pays for it. They will be at the mercy of former publishers who, even though they may have done it under pressure, collaborated with the Nazis and who, for the most part, had never had any real training in democratic conceptions anyway.

When the Military Government's new policy became known there was no public howl from the present German editors because they feared a reaction from the occupation authorities which license them.

Then Werner Friedmann, chief editor of Die Abendzeitung and co-editor and publisher of Seuddeutsche Zeitung, of Munich, came to the United States on a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation to study the American press. He took his problem to the Pentagon and was told to go ahead and holler.

He made his appeal last Saturday to several hundred members of the National Conference of Editorial Writers at Louisville. The response was immediate. I heard editors all over the place promising to do something about the story told by Friedmann, a graduate of Dachau concentration camp.

The whole thing seems to be a deliberate ignoring of press interests by the Property Control Division of Military Government. In addition a fund of 20 percent of income from the papers had been set up to see that they would be able to purchase or build plants. It was wiped out by currency reform.

The general policy of returning property to former owners was set up by the Property Control Division against the wishes of the Information Control Division. Friedmann says Information control authorities did their best. That the new democratic press must now be saved through high level action.

The Washington Post suggests one way would be to require the former owners to make their plants available to the new papers for a long period. At any rate, the Government can hardly ignore Friedmann's plea that "there is a difference between the manufacturer of shoes and the production of editorials. A Nazi who, after his successful denazification, produces shoes, is much less dangerous than the Nazi who produces newspapers."

McGill Views Klan In the Technique

The Technique, student publication at Georgia Tech, in its current issue features an interview with Ralph McGill, Editor of The Constitution, on the Ku Klux Klan.

McGill described the Klan as "Un-Christian, vile and mean." He said it must be driven out by enlightened, determined public opinion.

In its previous issue the publication had carried an interview with Dr. Samuel Green, Grand Dragon of the Klan.

EXTRAVAGANZA ACCLAIMED

2,500 City Students Stage Music Festival

By HOWELL JONES

Whoever said the big top was the "biggest show on earth" never saw Atlanta's high schools in action.

For more than 2,500 students from the City's seven community high schools last night staged a spectacle in music and song that would have made the late P. T. Barnum green with envy.

Taking advantage of almost every known medium of musical interpretation—from symphony to folk songs—the youthful musicians gave a whirlwind recital that kept an equal number of proud parents cheering and applauding throughout.

Seldom has the Municipal Auditorium seen such a gigantic cast of performers as was presented by the school system in its annual program, "Music and Youth." By the same token, seldom has an audience there seen such a variety of musical entertainment.

With young singers, dancers and musicians spread out across the vast auditorium, occupying almost one-half of the house, the cast was a spectacle within itself.

But it was the real—almost professional—ability of each of the young stars that made the show a big success and sent thousands of parents home happy and proud.

The show, produced and directed by Miss Anne Grace O'Callahan, Supervisor of High School Music, was based on the theme: "Music is for inspiration; music is for fun."

The program more than proved both points. It featured several types of vocal interpretation, including boys' and girls' glee clubs, a capella choirs, vocal ensembles and soloists; several types of instrumental interpreation, including band, orchestra and brass ensembles, plus two types of dance interpretation.

Highlights of the program included a band performance of Tschaikowsky's "1812 Overture"; an orchestral interpretation of Strauss' "Emperor Waltz," in which eight teams of students danced to the lilting strains of the Viennese music, and a group of songs presented by the Combined Boys' Glee Club.

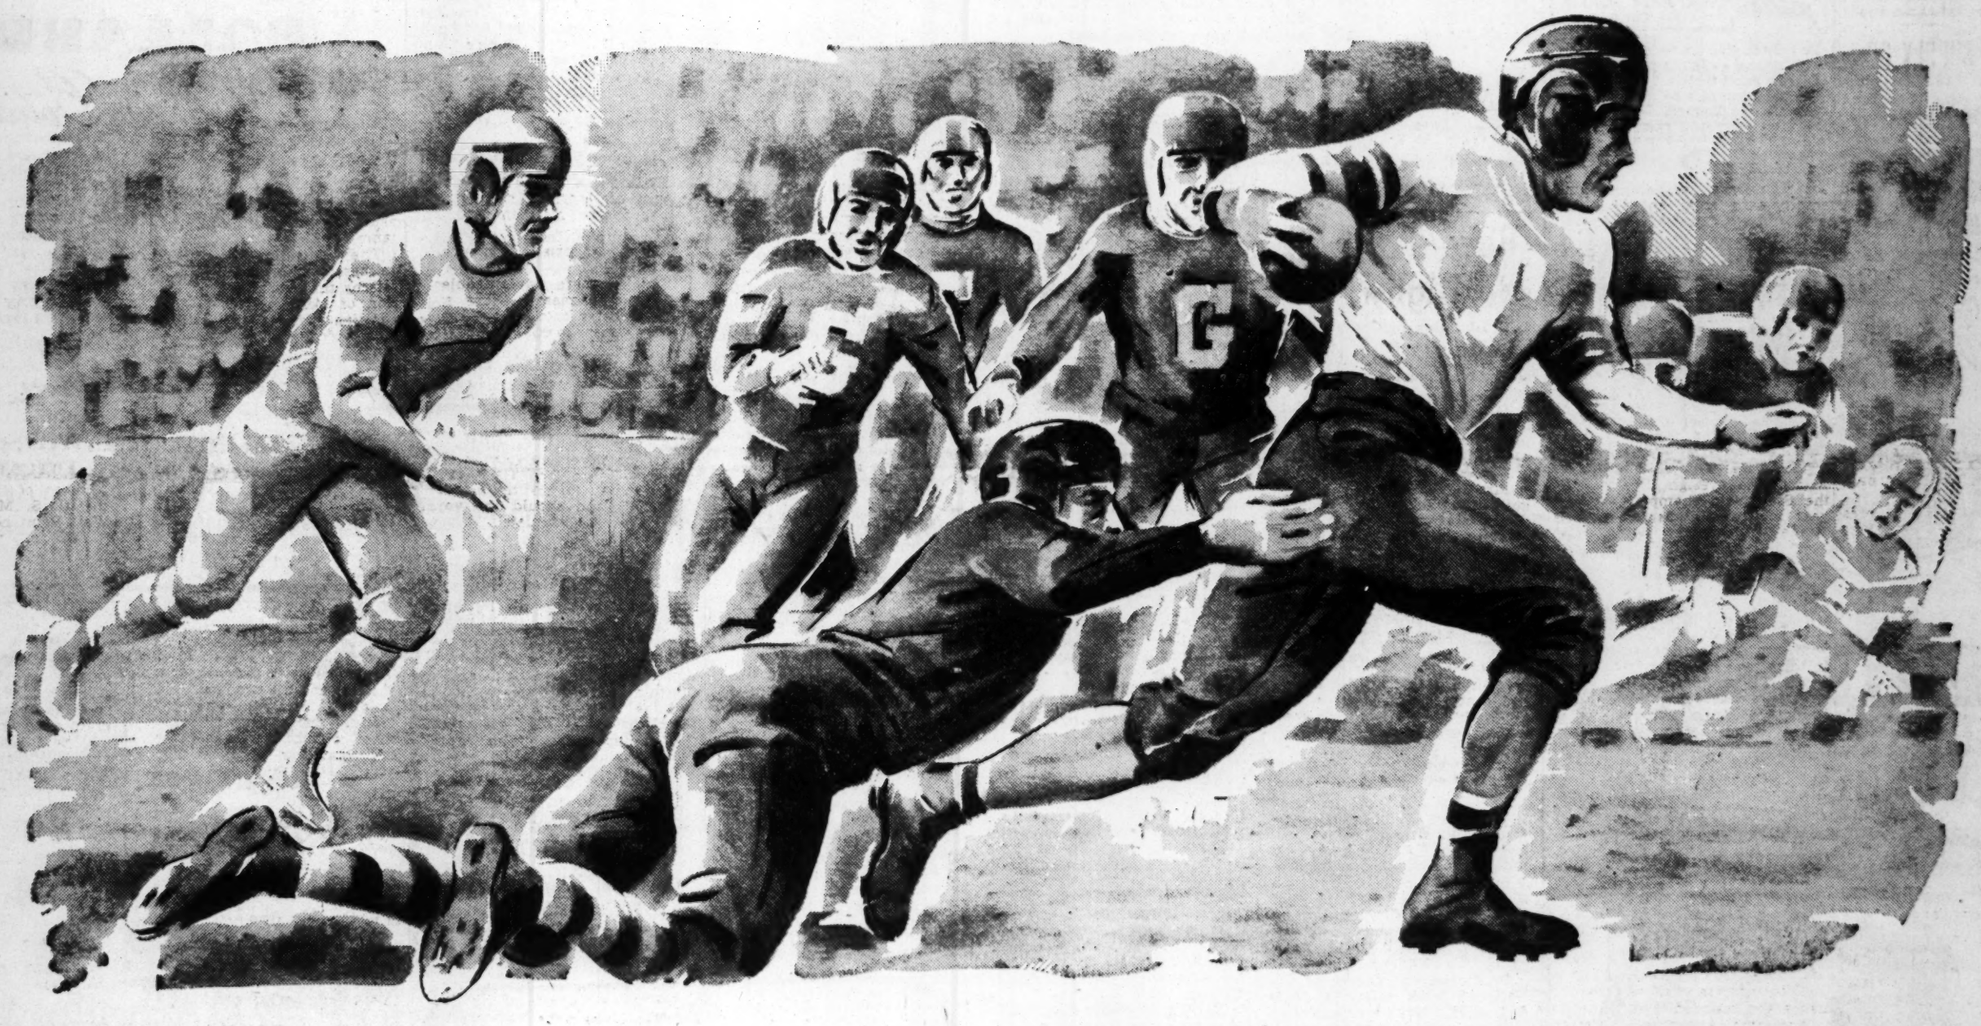

Thanksgiving

the Georgia way . . . .

"Strong legs will run that weak legs may walk" . . . that immortal phrase, coined by Editor Ralph McGill and echoed around the world, is a thumbnail description of a Georgia Thanksgiving Day.

For years, the feature of the day has been the annual football game between the Freshman teams of Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia, rivals in the field of sport since 1893. The Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children is the game's benefactor, and all proceeds go to that worthy cause. This is the only game in the history of sport where even the players pay admission.

Few performances can equal half-time, when the Shriners take the field. This is their great day, devoted to a great cause, and the fun, the pageantry and the splendor are unexcelled.

No words ever written can exceed the dramatic power of the scene when the crowds cheered the player who, years before, had watched the game from the sidelines, one of the rows of honorees in wheel chairs . . . little patients at the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.

So, it isn't just a football game. It's a story out of Georgia's life and out of Georgia's heart. The thousands from all over the State who throng to Grant Field come not just to see two great fighting teams in action and predict the State's future All-Americans. They come to cheer the pluck and the fighting spirit in little hearts whose legs are weak and faltering.

It's a true Thanksgiving Day . . . Georgia style.

Fashionable Rites Unite Miss Reeve and Mr. Inman

At one of the most fashionable nuptial ceremonies of the season Miss Beulah Bliss Reeve, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooke Reeve, became the bride of Sam Cooper Inman last evening at 8:30 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

The Rev. Milton Richardson, Rector of the Church, and Bishop John Moore Walker officiated at the service which assembled a representative gathering of Southern society.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve entertained at a brilliant reception at the Piedmont Driving Club, with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Inman, assisting in receiving the several hundred guests.

Mr. Reeve gave his lovely daughter in marriage, and Brooke Reeve, Jr., was best man for Mr. Inman. An intricate design of seed pearl and bugle bead embroidery, adorning the front of the bodice, distinguished the bride's ivory satin wedding gown which was fashioned with a cathedral train. Her illusion veil fell from a seed pearl coronet, and she carried a bouquet of valley lilies, centered with white orchids and showered with spray orchids.

Mrs. Tully Bryant, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids included Misses May Haverty, Kitty Warren, Anne Arkwright, Nellie Felix, Corinne Carpenter, Martha Evans, Betty Hitz, and Barbara Hirsh.

Serving as usher-groomsmen were Norris Broyles, Jr., John Grant, III, Dan Elkin, Jr., George Mercer, III, Tully Bryant, Edward Lindsey, Frank Owens, Jr., and McCary Ballard.

Mr. Inman and his bride left for a honeymoon in New Orleans. Upon their return they will reside in Athens where they will occupy an apartment on Milledge Circle. Both the bride and groom will attend classes at the University of Georgia.

Hapeville Woman Sets Precedent

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

Out in Hapeville, the first woman in the community's history is seeking election as a member of the City Council and her one exhortation to the voters has been:

"Compare the qualifications."

Mrs. James R. Roberts, the former Florence Drake, 3344 Myrtle St., a housewife and the mother of two sons, Jimmy, 10, and Jerry, 8, has no intention of winning the election if it takes mud-slinging and belligerence.

MRS. JAMES R. ROBERTS

"I am not asking for support just because I am a woman, either," she said firmly Tuesday, "but because I believe I am fitted for the post and because I am interested in the welfare of my city."

So quiet has been the campaign thus far that the Roberts' sons are oblivious to their pretty, dark-eyed mother's political aspirations, and think her chief claim to fame is being den mother to their Cub Scout troop.

So restrained has it been that her opponent, a member of her Sunday school at Hapeville Methodist Church, continues to be her good friend, and neither has thus far spoken disparagingly of the other.

This velvet-gloved campaign, however, belies Florence Roberts' determination that "a political ring shall not take over our City Hall," and her belief that the good work of the past year under Mayor Perry Hudson should be continued for the well-being of Hapeville's citizens.

A public stenographer and bookkeeper, who served as purchasing agent and then advertising manager of Aviation Supply Corporation for four years during the war, Mrs. Roberts got her first taste of politics from the back of the hand of a former administrator.

In company with other Hapeville people, she called upon him to request action on some civic situation, and he denied it stubbornly, then said: "If you don't like Hapeville, you can always move out."

Instead, Mrs. Roberts moved in.

She became President of North Avenue Parent-Teacher Association, was an adjutant in the Civic Air Patrol, the first woman to receive the commission of first lieutenant in that group in Georgia, and found herself working on the committee responsible for developing the swimming pool and the recreation building.

She liked politics and, Councilwoman or not, she is in it to stay.

Cats To Show This Week

The cat of my life was a fat, tuneful weak-willed little matron with a smudged nose, of World War I vintage, who submitted to my kindergarten taste for dressing up pets in baby clothes and wheeling them around in a perambulator pretending they were dolls.

Smut-Nose was patient with all this eccentricity, surrendering her sharp ears to the old white bonnets with pink bows and even learning to lie on her back while well-meaning "neighbors" popped in to admire her. She scrambled back into some semblance of decency when they had finished, and I always knew better than to push a good thing too far.

With such a perilous role, she could scarcely have understood the elegant boredom with which the princely cat and catesses of the Cotton States await the Tenth Annual Cat Club Show here at Taft Hall this Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. L. P. McGee, Show Secretary, says 175 prize-winning felines will be coming to Atlanta, some of them arriving alone by plane, bringing their own private combs and brushes and feeding pans.

There will be long-haired Persians, Manx, Cheshires and Tabbies, Domestic Short Hairs (they don't call them alley cats any more), and, of course Harold Martin's scrapping and proletariat entry, Chester, Jr., as well as lots of others.

A maid named Sarah, who is a professional cat washer (have you ever tried to bathe a cat?), will be on hand day and night to brush up the little strangers before the judging, making them look their royal best.

With all those grown cats, of course, there'll be lots of kittens, all colors and sizes and kinds, for sale, Mrs. McGee says, at reasonable prices.

THREE-DAY VISIT

Dr. Laura Zirbes, Ohio Educator, To Lecture Here

Dr. Laura Zirbes, Professor of Education at Ohio State University and Chairman of the Editorial Board, Association for Childhood Education, will make a three-day lecture visit to Atlanta next week under the joint auspices of the Fulton County Board of Education and the Kathleen Mitchell Branch, Association for Childhood Education.

Dr. Zirbes was chosen by the National Press Women's Association last year as America's outstanding woman in education, in special recognition of her achievement in curriculum development and teacher education.

She will make three appearances Monday, at 10 a. m. before the Fulton County Principals, at the Board of Education Maintenance Building on Central Avenue; at noon, at a luncheon meeting at Lena Cox School, before the Fulton County School Administrative Staff; at 3:15 p. m., at Harris Street School in East Point, before the elementary teachers and principals of the southern section of Fulton County.

Her Tuesday addresses will include an afternoon meeting with the North Fulton High School faculty at 2 p. m., and as principal speaker at 6:30 p. m. at the Atlanta Woman's Club, before members of the ACE.

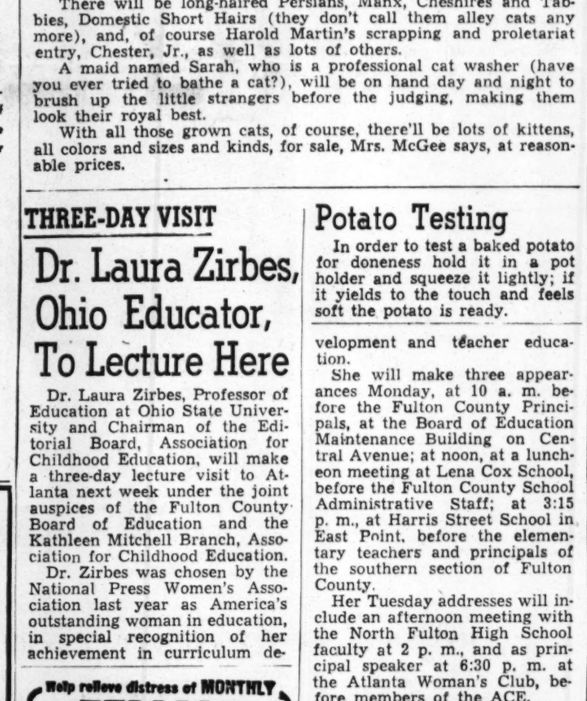

On Wednesday Dr. Zirbes will address the Negro principals at 10:30 a. m. at the Maintenance Building, and the elementary teachers and principals of the northern section of Fulton County at R. L. Hope School at 3:15 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Leslie, of Dallas, Texas, announce the birth of a daughter, Sandra Ann, on Nov. 21. Mrs. Leslie is the former Miss Frances Klenberg, of Atlanta.

The mystery of bird travel, the irresistible, instinctive urge that compels birds to head north in Spring and south in Autumn, flying as purposefully as if they followed a radio beam, will be shown in natural color motion pictures by an expert ornithologist Dec. 4 at 6 p. m. at a banquet at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

MRS. C. C. DAVIS

Roger Tory Peterson, New York artist, scientist and author of the nation's two most widely used field guides to bird identification, will be presented here by the Atlanta Bird Club and the National Audubon Society. His lectures will be titled "The Riddle of Migration."

Reservations to the dinner and lecture may be made by telephoning HE. 0519-W.

Peterson's appearance here will open the second season of a series of natural history and conservation lectures in Atlanta, known as the Audubon Screen Tours. The second lecturer will be Howard L. Orian's naturalist-photographer, who will bring his motion pictures of Lake Michigan wildlife Jan. 6. Karl H. Maslowski, Cincinnati, will bring his Arizona adventure, "Saguaroland," Feb. 10; and Tom and Arlene Hadley, leaders of Detroit's powerful outdoors movement, will bring their "Happy Valley," story of canoe trips through Northern Michigan March 2. The last tour will be scheduled for April 9, with Telford H. Work's "Bits of Land Along the Coast," an account of picturesque oceanic islands, rocky homes and nesting grounds of puffins, murres, guillemots, pelicans and comorants.

Audubon Screen Tours are being conducted in more than a hundred cities in America and Canada.

Miss Sellers Weds at Church

Miss Ruby L. Sellers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hollis Burel, became the bride of Cecil Cook Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Pope Davis, of Chipley, recently at Moreland Avenue Baptist Church. Dr. Dow Kirkpatrick, of Young Harris, officiated.

James Pope Davis, Jr., was his brother's best man and usher-groomsmen were Edward Coppock, of Decatur; Pete Joyner, of Brunswick; John Elmer Champion and Sam Pitman, of Chipley.

Mrs. James Bivins was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Lila Claire Davis, sister of the groom; Miss Patricia Anne Butler, of Miami, Fla.; Miss Martha Wingard and Mrs. Muriel McCall, of Atlanta. Miss Daphne Davis, sister of the groom, was junior bridesmaid. Little Kippy Kirkpatrick was ring bearer.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception in the social hall of the church following the ceremony.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Jekyll Island. They will reside in Athens.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Toombs Kimbrough and Miss Beth Kimbrough, of Cochran; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Parker, Mrs. Jessie Champion, of Chipley; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parker, of Lanett, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Horace Perdue, of Stratford, Conn.; Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McPherson, Jones Drewry of the University of Georgia; Mrs. Marjorie Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Atkins, Miss Roxanna Austin, Miss Beatrice Autry, Miss Hazel Gilstrap, Miss Margaret Hart, Miss Cornelia Lowe, Miss Hilda McCurdy, Mr. W. S. Mann and Mr. Starr Miller, from Young Harris College, and Miss Jessie Strickland, of Hiawassee.

SCOUTS 'ADOPT' 13-YEAR-OLD INVALID

Sally Briscoe on Road to Recovery

By YOLANDE GWIN

The Girl Scouts assumed a new role yesterday.

Each member of Troop No. 75 of the West End Presbyterian Church became a "Lady Bountiful" and took under her care and affection, little 13-year-old Sally Briscoe, a victim of a heart malady that has kept her bedridden and on a no-salt diet for more than a year.

It was during her illness at Grady Hospital—and she has not fully recovered yet—that Sally longed to be a member of the Girl Scouts and "go out like the Girl Scouts and do good deeds."

Members of Troop No. 75 heard of her wish and with their leader, Mrs. E. B. Walker, decided that they would adopt Sally. Upon the little girl's return to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Briscoe, at 106 Woodward Ave., N. E., members of the troop were among the first to call, and each presented Sally with a gift, plus a Girl Scout Handbook, and plus some Thanksgiving goodies for the whole family.

The child had what doctors diagnosed as chronic adhesive pericarditis. While at Grady, a physician said if she had not unhave remained bedridden all her life—and her life would have been short.

So, true to tradition, the Scouts have done their good deed and, quite appropriately, it comes at a time and to a contemporary who will have additional reason for being thankful tomorrow.

Easy Dishwashing

Dishwashing is easier if saucepans and other utensils are filled with water and allowed to soak while the meal is being served; the water should come up to the line made by the cooked food.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Dr. and Mrs. Steve Barnett To Honor T. D. Meador

Each year when Nov. 28 rolls around, the T. D. Meador family celebrates Mr. Meador's birthday anniversary in a big way. Heretofore, the dinner has taken place at the Meador home on Peachtree Circle, but this year Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Barnett are entertaining the family circle at their home on Huntington Road.

It happened like this: Mrs. Barnett's uncle, Maj. George Blankenship, told his niece that he wanted to send her a very special Thanksgiving present—a big, fat turkey! So she decided to have the family over on her father's birthday anniversary instead of tomorrow.

The family, including Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Meador, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Meador, Jr., will be present, the only absent members being Col. and Mrs. Troup Miller, who reside in Montgomery, and who will have to forego a trip to Atlanta at this time, in lieu of their visit here at Christmas.

Bridesmaids in Gold Velvet

The lovely bridesmaids in Beulah Reeve's wedding to Sam Inman last night at St. Luke's reminded one of the days when Marie Antoinette was the star in Napoleon's court. They wore charming Empire gowns of reddish gold chiffon velvet, the bouffant skirts stiffened with crinoline at the hipline and featuring fullness toward the back. The elbow-length sleeves were shirred up the arm.

In their hair the girls each wore a cluster of three little plumes made from the petals of bronze chrysanthemums and looking for all the world like a dainty floral fleur de lis. Bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums completed the effective costumes.

They Are Keeping Their Fingers Crossed

The decision as to whether Mrs. L. N. Conrad and her bridge partner, Mrs. E. B. Zachry, get a free trip to Miami, Fla., in December rests in the lap of two Atlantans. At any rate, they are keeping their fingers crossed, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that they were runners-up in the bridge tournament at the Kimball House last Saturday evening, sponsored by the American Contract Bridge League.

According to the rules of the League, in Saturday evening's contest the winning bridge team is to be given a complimentary trip to the Roney Plaza in Miami, where the National Bridge Tournament is staged in early December. J. B. McConnell and Ralph Feagin beat the girls by a hair's breadth. If, however, they are unable to attend the national tournament, then Mrs. Zachry and Mrs. Conrad will take their places.

By the way, these two prominent Atlanta women won a silver cup recently when the American Contract Bridge League staged a tournament in Gatlinburg, Tenn.

THE WHOLE FAMILY GOES FOR CHILI FRITOS — This meal has just the right touch. Try it tonight and see for yourself. All you need is two 4-ounce bags of Lay's Fritos, 1 large can of chili, 2 large onions and 1 cup of grated cheese. Place half of crushed Lay's Fritos in buttered casserole. Pour half can of chili over Fritos. Chop one onion and sprinkle over mixture. Spread half cup of cheese over this. Repeat process, making another layer. Bake in moderate oven for 20 minutes. Do not cook onions thoroughly. This meal is just as delicious as it sounds. Try it tonight—with Lay's Fritos.

ACCORDION-PLEATED NYLON 'ARRIVES'

Fashion Note---Stoles for Boudoir

Rich American ladies who once journeyed to France to buy accordion-pleated silk nightgowns for $250 and then paid $45 each time they were laundered, can now buy a better item for a reasonable price in America, wash it out themselves and wear it again within an hour.

This is the age of nylon and permanent accordion-pleated nylon has arrived.

Ruth Lupton Mills, Promotion Manager for Vanity Fair and Ecstasy lingerie, visited Atlanta yesterday and told about the pleated nylon gowns at the same moment she explained that stoles for the boudoir are likewise to be expected for general news.

It seems that the Empire-type gown is the comer, and that you wear a stole around your shoulders when you breakfast in bed, or, if it's too hot for that, tie it around your waist for a sash, or wear it knotted about the neck in a kind of ascot tie, to fill in the sleepwear decolletage.

Vanity Fair, Miss Mills said, has switched to nylon knitwear completely and has three examples of its fabric on display at the Metropolitan Museum, where it has won special recognition. Only one type of fabric, called Pechglo, is made in Vanity Fair mills with one thread of rayon for absorption.

Pechglo, Miss Mills explained, is used in an old-fashioned garment that few people read about but almost all well-dressed women use . . . the vest or chemise.

"Neither is rarely, if ever, advertised these days," she said, "but most fastidious women still ask for them to wear next their skin. They have never gone out of demand."

Miss Yvonne Lowe Weds William Frank Harris

Peachtree Christian Church formed the setting for the candlelight ceremony which united in marriage Miss Yvonne Lowe and William Frank Harris last evening at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. Robert Burns performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, W. B. Savage, wore a gown of candlelight satin that was worn by Mrs. Charles S. Roach as a bride. Seed pearls traced the neckline and dotted the wide Chantilly lace panel down the front of the bodice and full skirt. The skirt ended in a long cathedral train. ended in a cathedral train. The bride's illusion veil fell from a bandeau of orange blossoms and tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and swainsona centered with white orchids.

William C. Harris was his son's best man. Ushers included Oby T. Brewer, Col. James N. Keelin, Jr., T. N. Privette, James C. Malone and Dr. George H. Myshrall.

Acting as groomsmen were Garland Muse, Frank Smith, Louie Wood, Clifford Hatcher, William Daniel, all of Atlanta, and Robert Johnston, of Woodstock.

Mrs. John M. King, Jr., was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Misses Grace Slider, Mitzi Tucker, Anne Cogburn, Mesdames Robert A. McLemore, Porter Payne, both sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Charles S. Roach.

Judy King, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Savage entertained the couple at a wedding reception at East Lake Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Harris left for a wedding trip to Ponte Vedra, Fla.

Upon their return the couple will reside in Birmingham.

Textron Head Says Tobey 'Built Hatred Against Me'

BOSTON—(AP)—Textron Pres. Royal Little yesterday hit at Sen. Charles W. Tobey with charges that he "deliberately built up hatred against me" and was conducting an "un-American hearing" on the affairs of Textron.

A Senate subcommittee headed by Tobey has been investigating charitable trusts set up by the textile corporation to determine whether they are tax-exempt.

Sen. Tobey said his only retort to Little would be a quotation from the Bible—"A soft answer turneth away wrath."

Little leaped to his feet from the witness chair to make his table-pounding speech in which he charged: "You are not carrying on in an American manner . . . you created hatred among the people of Nashua, N. H. . . . You deliberately built that hatred up against me and Textron. . . . Your conduct of the hearings so disgusted the people of Nashua that they requested the hearings be moved out of Nashua."

The Textron President referred to the first hearing in Nashua last Sept. 20 called by Tobey's Committee after union protests over the announced closing of two Textron mills.

Those two mills have since been marked for continued operation in a compromise plan offered by Little.

But in his outburst at Tobey, Little declared that it is going to be "extremely difficult to operate in Nashua because of the way you have whipped up the feeling."

U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue George J. Schoeneman failed to appear at the beginning of yesterday's session in answer to the subcommittee's demand that he testify on back taxes allegedly owed by a $4,500,000 trust which lists Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath as one of its three trustees.

In a press conference after the morning session Sen. Tobey declined again to say what his next move might be to get testimony from Schoeneman.

But in answers to questions Tobey said: "Any Senate committee can cite a witness for contempt or subpoena a witness."

COFFEE MARKET

NEW YORK—(AP)—Santos coffee futures were lower on profit taking Tuesday. In dealer quarters it was reported that operations of coffee roasters had been slowed down because of dwindling green coffee stocks, arising from the longshoremen strike along the Atlantic Coast. At least one roaster was said to be out of some better quality coffees, while others not taking orders beyond December delivery. Spot coffee was steady. Coffee spot Santos No. 4 closed at 28½n. Cost and freight offerings include Santos Bourbons 3s at 27.00-28.50n and 5s 24.80-26.45n. Santos No. 4 "D" futures closed 29 to 35 lower. Sales 46 contracts.

Early Stock Selloff Starts Late Buying

NEW YORK—(AP)—A late recovery chopped down earlier losses in Tuesday's market but most stocks closed lower.

Final prices were off fractions to a point or so and above the day's lows in numerous cases. A good many issues finished slightly higher.

Tuesday's overall setback, slight though it was, added a bit to Monday's decline which just about wiped out the gains scored all of last week.

Turnover crossed the 1,000,000-share mark for the first time in a week. The total of 1,010,000 compared with 890,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .1 of one point to 64.5. Of the 1,025 issues which appeared on the ticker tape, 505 declined with 278 advanced.

Business was largely professional, according to Wall Street sources. Local traders operating on a short-term basis played a prominent part in the day's proceedings, these quarters said, while the general public was more or less aloof.

One leading stock exchange firm with overseas connections mentioned Swiss interests as on the buying side.

Washington news—and much of it had a direct bearing on the market—created little or no fuss. An announcement by Sen. Flanders, Republican, Vermont, regarding plans for a congressional investigation of corporation profits was more or less shrugged off although observers admitted hearings on the subject might have a pronounced effect on business policy.

Most traders seemed to be waiting for a definite statement of plans from the President before trying to gauge the legislative course of the new Congress.

Lower in the curb were American Gas & Electric, Atlas Plywood, Cities Service, Easy Washing Machine, Imperial Oil, Venezuelan Petroleum and Pantepec Oil. Ahead slightly were Ashland Oil, Crosley Motors and United Light & Railways. Turnover of 240,000 shares compared with 220,000 Monday.

Declines of fractions generally and in some cases a oint or more were in the majority in Tuesday's bond market. Selling was never hurried, however, and here and there were plus marks of modest amounts.

FLORISTS MEET—Members of the Atlanta Commercial Flower Growers, meeting Monday at the offices of Wachendorff Brothers florists, heard Dr. B. S. Pickett, of the Horticulture of Georgia speak the University of Georgia, speak on "The Economical Use of Greenhouses." Charles H. Driver, Director of the Fulton County Botanical Garden and Secretary of the Atlanta organization, told of the work of the Southeastern Florist Association Growers' School, held at Nashville, Tenn., last Nov. 8.

New York Cotton Moves In Narrow Price Range

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cotton futures moved in a narrow range in active trading Tuesday featured by evening up operations in nearby December, prior to first notice day in those contracts today. Final prices were 25 cents a bale lower to five cents higher.

Both December, 1948, and March, 1949, deliveries reached 32.00 cents a pound, new highs for the current move and about 130 points above the average loan price, basis Memphis. While traders look only for small deliveries of cotton against futures contracts on Wednesday, the large open interest in December stimulated a good deal of covering by mills against textile orders. They also transferred hedge positions from December to later months.

Some attention was attracted to Washington reports that cotton officials were revising upward heir ideas on the amount of cotton that will go into the loan. These reports guessed 6,000,000 bales, against average trade of 4,500,000.

Early N. O. Cotton Rise Stopped by Selling

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced in early trading here Tuesday but gradually eased off under long liquidation in preparation for first December notice date today. Closing prices were steady, five cents to 20 cents a bale lower.

Early in the session, prices rose on buying stimulated by continued reports of a heavy flow of the actual stuff into the Government loan and favorable accounts from leading textile centers.

According to ring traders, December notices were not expected to be large. Certificated stocks at all delivery points amount to only 28,240 bales, the smallest since December last year.

What About Huge Profits? Solons Want To Know

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Profits are shooting toward an estimated $20,000,000,000 record this year and Sen. Flanders, Republican, Vermont, said yesterday Congress wants to knew what is going to be done with them.

He heads an inquiring subcommittee which will open hearings Dec. 7 in a broad study of the huge earnings. What it learns will influence legislation in many fields, he predicted.

Sen. O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, member of the group, told a reporter:

"I think we will find some startling evidence that something must be done about monopolies."

Flanders said it is important that the hearings be completed before Congress tackles the major issues headed its way. Conflicting views will be aired in the hearings expected to run 10 days.

"First of all," said Flanders, "we should learn how and why these profits are accumulated.

"And everybody, including the consumers, is properly interested in what is going to be done with them."

Flanders suggested these as prime questions:

1. How much of the profits result from inflation and must be kept in business and industry as a possible cushion for a recession or depression?
2. How much of the profits can the Government tap and how?
3. Are the profits to be distributed to shareholders, or to consumers through lower prices, or to employees through a fourth-round of postwar wage increase?
4. How much of the profits are needed to improve or expand plant facilities for greater production and lower consumer cost?

"We need all this background information for legislation in almost every field that will come before the next Congress," Flanders said.

O'Mahoney said that "big business is fearful of an excess profits tax and wants to set up arguments against it." He already has urged such a tax on corporations.

O'Mahoney said the hearings will show the "effect upon little and local business by these huge profits being made by concentrated industry."

He declared the 100 largest corporations last year had "91 per cent more income after deduction of taxes than they had in 1945."

The first witness will be Prof. Summer Slichter of Harvard University. Flanders said he will be followed by other economists and by accountants able to interpret the profits.

Business and industry, including spokesmen for some of the corporations with the best profits records, will be called to testify.

Flanders is conducting the hearings as Chairman of a six-man subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee. Sen. Taft, Republican, Ohio, has been chairman of the full Committee during GOP contrl of Congress.

O'Mahoney, who already has urged a peacetime excess profits tax on corporations, will be Chairman of the economic group early next year when Democrats take over control of Congress.

Bank Loans Show Decline

Twenty-eight banks in the Sixth District Federal Reserve System reported a drop of $8,000,000 in total loans for the week ending Nov. 17.

The bank reported total investments were up $8,000,000 and total deposits increased $1,000,000. The decline in total loans follows 11 straight weeks of expansion.

75 Percent State Cotton Under Government Loan

In expectation of higher prices within a few months, the cotton farmers of Georgia are placing about 75 percent of their 1948 crop under Government loan, cotton experts said here yesterday. The cotton crop for Georgia in 1948 amounted to about 600,000 bales.

The loan value in Atlanta for cotton is 31.27 cents per pound. Farmers are hopeful the price will go back to 35 cents per pound by next Spring.

"The basic purpose of the loan is to permit farmers to hold their cotton," said an expert here. "With the mill situation as it now is and with favorable prospects for large shipments to Europe under the ECA plan, the farmers appeared justified in their belief that the price will go up during the next few months."

The parity price for cotton in Atlanta, based upon 92½ percent of the average price between 1909 and 1914, is now 31.12 cents per pound. With various necessary adjustments for warehousing, insurance, etc., the loan value is thus in line with the parity price.

Experts have figured the 1948 crop at 15,166,000 bales. They say at least 5,000,000 bales of this crop will go into the loan.

Under the present law, there will be no allotment of cotton acreage for the 1949 crops, experts here say. However, they expressed the belief that Congress at its next session may change the law so as to make acreage allotments necessary for the 1950 crop.

Cotton Insect Meet To Draw Experts Here

Leading cotton experts of the United States will come to Atlanta on Dec. 6 and 7 for the second annual Cotton Insect Control Conference to be held at the Henry Grady Hotel under the auspices of the National Cotton Council.

Those present at the conference will include representatives of the cotton industry, the Extension Service, the experiment stations, farms organizations, and insecticide manufacturers.

The following men will represent Georgia at this conference:

H. L. Wingate, of Macon, President of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, who will serve as General Chairman of the Conference.

D. W. Brooks, of Atlanta, General Manager of the Cotton Producers Association.

J. Van Rogers, of Atlanta, Field Representative of the National Cottonseed Products Association.

John R. Hawlow, of Orchard Hill, representing the A. G. Swint Seed and Grain Company.

M. D. Mobley of Atlanta, Georgia State Supervisor of Vocational Agricultural Education.

T. G. Walters, of Atlanta, Georgia State Supervisor of Agricultural Education, who will speak on "Launching a Cotton Insect Control Program and Providing Teaching Aids Within the State."

Costly 'Dreams' Peril U.S.-Martin

MIAMI BEACH—(INS)—Outgoing House Speaker Joe Martin, Republican, Massachusetts, chose an ice cream convention yesterday for a charge that "costly dreams by bureaucratic visionaries" are aiding the cause of Communists in America.

Martin, in his first speech since the November election, said dire results would come from these dreams. He spoke to the Southern Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers in Miami Beach.

He claimed the Truman Administration plans called for enlarged spending programs which he said would result in "deficit spending and increased taxation all along the line." He added:

"We know that Communism wants to see mighty America laid low. She hopes to accomplish that by pushing us steadily toward the consuming fires of inflation."

Trade Pacts Aimed On Permanent Basis

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rep. Dingell, Democrat, Michigan, said yesterday he would introduce legislation to put reciprocal trade agreements between the United States and other nations on a permanent basis when Congress meets in January.

Under the present law, the program for regulating tariff rates is subject to renewal by Congress after a one-year period. Bitter debate marked the passage of the legislation last June.

Labor-Boss Body To Spur Bond Buying

A joint labor-management committee to speed up the sale of United States Savings Bonds in Georgia will be set up today by representatives of both capital and labor at a meeting in the offices of the Atlanta Federation of Trades.

This was agreed upon yesterday by the Industrial Advisory Committee of Goregia for the Promotion of Thrift Through Payroll Savings. Members of this Committee, representing business men, bankers and labor unions, held a session at the Federal Reserve Bank.

Joseph G. Woodruff, State Director for the United States Savings Bond campaign in Georgia, explained the goal of the new drive:

"There are 1,099 firms in Georgia which employ 100 or more persons. Out of this number, 286 have put in the payroll savings plan. We desire to increase that number to 600.

"There are now 30,000 persons in Georgia who are buying these bonds through the payroll savings plan. We would like to increase that number to 60,000. The goal is to sell $600,000 worth of these bonds per month, or $7,000,000 a year."

Woodruff cited the case of Echols County, with a total population of 2,300. With a quota of $5,000, this County has already purchased $44,000 in "E" bonds.

Henry Chandler, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, suggested the labor - management committee make an intensive drive to increase the volume of payroll savings deductions in Georgia. He pledged the support of all AFL unions to this drive.

Woodruff praised the Western Union employees in Atlanta for their response to the payroll savings plan. Employee participation in the plan, he said, had risen from 19 percent last February to 67 percent at the present time. This, he said, was a record for the entire South.

E. S. Papy is Chairman of the Industrial Advisory Committee of Georgia and Jackson P. Dick Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Business Failures Show Increase

NEW YORK — (AP) — Business failures rose sharply to 126 in the week ended Nov. 18, the highest number since February, Dun & Bradstreet reported yesterday.

The total compared with 96 in the preceding week and 79 in the comparable period a year ago.

Retailing failures totaled 58, the largest since early 1943.

Seaboard Seeks To Float Loan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company yesterday asked Interstate Commerce Commission authority to issue $3,255,000 of equipment trust certificates.

The Company said the proceeds will be used in connection with a $4,381,741 purchase of 450 freight cars and nine new Diesel locomotives.

GEORGIA TELEPHONE OFFICERS—Elected by the Georgia Telephone Association yesterday were these officers: seated, left to right, H. M. Stewart, of Cornelia, Secretary-Treasurer; A. A. Fincher, Jr., Canton, President; W. C. Martin, of Fitzgerald, Second Vice President; standing, J. E. Kirk, of Dalton, First Vice President.

Telephone Association Gets War-Short Supply Picture

That old debbil War, still hanging around, is gumming up efforts of telephone companies to provide needed service.

An equipment maker told the Georgia Telephone Association yesterday the necessity for providing equipment for revived military installations and the bite being taken out of metal supplies by defense armament are slowing down equipment suppliers.

But, said W. A. McCracken, works manager of the Kellogg Switchboard and Supply Company, the suppliers are making headway and expanding their plants.

Matt L. McWhorter, Vice Chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, told the independent telephone group that ratemaking was a matter of horse sense. It boils down to finding the easiest way for the public to pay the money necessary to keep utilities going, he said.

McWhorter urged on the small companies the need for keeping clear records so that their expenses could be clearly set out in rate-making. Even the smallest companies must give top service, he said, in order to get adequate rates. To expand, they must get investment—they cannot expect to do it with current income. They will be required to give rural service, even if it's a losing proposition, he warned.

Telephone companies, McWhorter concluded, should make surveys to determine what the demands for service will be and plan to meet the demand.

Good will of the customer is best kept by providing good service, and that in turn is best insured by careful maintenance of equipment, said R. B. Shaw, District plant manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Beginning with proper original construction and equipment, maintenance should be routine so that trouble can be spotted in advance, or before it becomes serious, Shaw said. Higher labor and material costs make maintenance the more imperative, he added.

Monday night, the Association was told by Pres. H. S. Dumas, of Southern Bell, that Georgia is coming to a period of great opportunity. The South is on the march toward economic greatness, he said, and Georgia could become the queen of the Nation with proper push during this surge.

Telephone companies can help the State reach for its opportunity by giving her a fine system of communications to link up her economy; they should plan and work for it now, Dumas added.

Elected officers of the GTA were: A. A. Fincher, Jr., of Canton, President; J. E. Kirk, of Dalton, First Vice President; W. C. Martin, of Fitzgerald, Second Vice President; H. M. Stewart, of Cornelia, Secretary-Treasurer. Fincher, Kirk, Martin, A. M. New, of Fitzgerald; E. P. Burney, of La-Fayette; Horace Vaughn, of Chickamauga; C. J. Yates, of Atlanta; J. L. Mathews, of Statesboro; W. A. Echols, of Commerce, and J. S. Peters, of Manchester, were named Directors.

Earnings-Dividends

Norfolk & Western Railway Company reported net operating income of $33,-279,624, or $5.27 a share, for the first 10 months of 1948 compared with $28,537,-027, or $4.46 for the same period last year. Gross operating income was $154,-754,407, an increase of $18,592,224, or nearly 14 percent, over.

Alabama Great Southern Railroad Company declared dividends of $4 each on the ordinary stock and the preferred, both payable Dec. 24 to holders of record Dec. 4. It disbursed a like amount in June. Payments in 1947 were $3.50 in June and $3 in December.

Travelers Insurance Company declared a dividend of $4 and an extra dividend of $6, payable Dec. 10 to holders of record Nov. 26.

Beech Aircraft Corporation reported earnings of $2,213,626, equal to $5.53 a share, for the year ended Sept. 30 compared with a net loss of $1,816,469 for the year before.

Industrial Rayon Corporation declared an extra dividend of five percent, payable in stock Jan. 12, to holders of record Dec. 16. This form of dividend was made in order to conserve cash for expansions planned. A continuous process plant will be built on the Ohio River at Mt. Pleasant, W. Va.

SUGAR FUTURES

NEW YORK—(AP)—Domestic sugar futures were steady Tuesday on Cuban buying, while world futures were dull in mixed trading.

Raw sugar was quiet with sellers of old crop sugar asking 5.75 cents a pound delivered, new crops held at 5.60 cents a pound.

Demand for refined was good because the longshoremen strike has cut off further imports if raw sugar from a good many refineries along the Atlantic coast.

Domestic sugar futures No. 5 closed unchanged to 1 higher, sales 94 contracts.

Truman Vetoes Hoffman Order On Grain Trade

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman last night threw overboard the decision of Foreign Aid Administrator Paul G. Hoffman to take the Government out of the grain export trade.

Hoffman, rebuffed on a major policy, said his Economic Co-operation Administration will rescind at once its order giving private traders control of Marshall Plan grain shipments on Dec. 1.

But Hoffman, one of the few Republicans high in the Government, came out of the White House conference with what amounted to a vote of confidence from Mr. Truman.

"The President said he anted me to stay on the job," Hoffman told reporters as he left the Presidential office. "He volunteered that."

Asked whether he, Hoffman, was agreeable to remaining, the ECA chief smiled wryly: "Whether it's agreeable or not, I'm staying on."

The grain policy reversal left foreign traders with millions of dollars in contracts signed, calling for European shipment after Dec. 1. Hoffman said some means would be found to "honor" the contracts.

But all future buying for Europe and China will remain, as in the past, in the hands of the Agriculture Department's Commodity Credit Corporation—where Sec. of Agriculture Charles Brannan wanted it.

Wheat Price Dips, Corn, Oats Follow

CHICAGO—(AP)—Early gains in grain futures were lost late in the session at the Board of Trade Tuesday. The opening advance attracted profit cashing, and later news of an embargo at Galveston, Texas, in addition to those at Houston and New Orleans, brought scattered liquidation in wheat.

Corn was in demand early, but reacted with wheat, when traders were advised that the longshoreman strike at North Atlantic ports had brought a glut of grain to Gulf ports.

Wheat ended ½ to ⅞ lower than Monday; corn ⅛ higher to ⅝ lower, oats unchanged to 1 cent lower, and rye 1 cent to 1¾ lower. Lard was off 2 to 15 cents a hundredweight.

Announcement that the Government had asked for bids on flour after the close of Tuesday's session for acceptance today, gave wheat a lift at the start. Later profit cashing and selling, regarded as hedging against wheat coming out of storage, developed losses.

There was some realizing in corn attributed to elevator houses and Northwest interests, but support developed for a time from cash houses. Later this was replaced by selling.

Oats acted tight during the early part of the session, but weakened toward the close as did rye.

Soybeans were in demand at the start but when other gains sold off, profit cashing wiped out the day's advance.

Lard more than lost early gains. For the greater part of the day there was no development favoring either side.

CASH GRAINS

CHICAGO—(AP)—Wheat was not for for sale in the spot trade Tuesday but prices were called nominally lower with the futures; basis nominally steady; receipts six cars. Corn was one to two cents higher; basis one-half to two cents up; bookings, 60.000 bushels; receipts, 116 cars. Oats were unchanged to higher with the futures; basis unchanged to one-half cent more; receipts, 15 cars. Soybeans receipts were 12 cars.

Hormel Workers Get $20,790 Joint Earnings

Atlanta employees of the George A. Hormel Company, meat packers, received a check for $20,-790.24, an amount which represents the annual Thanksgiving Day joint-earnings payment customary with this Company. There are 51 Hormel employees in Atlanta.

The share of each Hormel employee in this check was 7.452 times the weekly basic salary. The Hormel Company has an annual wage contract with its employees.

This payment is part of a distribution of $2,401,585.60, which Hormel & Company have paid out since the end of their fiscal year, last Oct. 30.

In giving out the payment here, Louis W. Hill, Hormel's Atlanta Manager, said:

"This is definitely an earning check and not a bonus or a profit-sharing return. The aim of the Hormel & Company has paid out earns the money, he gets it. Thus, the more effort and co-operation he shows, the more likelihood of improved earnings."

Under this payment, for example, if an employee's weekly basic pay is $67.60, his share in this year's earnings is $503.76.

The Hormel Plan has been in operation for 10 years. The joint-earnings payments this year were the largest in the history of the plan.

Heater Companies Agree to Merger

NEW YORK—(AP)—Directors of Combustion Engineering Company and Superheater Company, both of New York, agreed yesterday to merge.

The merger is subject to stockholders' approval at a meeting Dec. 22 and would be effective Dec. 31 under the name Combustion Engineering-Superheater, Inc.

Season's Songs By Pilgrim Girls

By RITA VAN PELT

With a typical colonial New England church as the background, the Girls' Glee Club of Plymouth High School from historic Plymouth, Mass., will present a Thanksgiving concert direct from the New Haven Railroad's display in Grand Central Terminal, New York City, this afternoon at 3:45.

Dressed in traditional Pilgrim costumes, the girls will present their concert from the steps of a the church which is part of a "Main Street—New England" display. The program will be aired over WCON-ABC as a Thanksgiving tribute.

Bing's Guests

What a combination! Metropolitan Opera Star Dorothy Kirsten and Comedian Bert Lahr will aid Bing Crosby in the music and merriment department of his show over WCON-ABC tonight at 10. . . . Reminiscing about old-time "Dutch" comedies, Bing and Bert will roll back the years to the turn of the century to offer a "Schultz and Rudolph" dialect routine which will be interrupted by Miss Kirsten in time to turn the dialogue into a three-way rendition of "Friendship." She will also sing the lovely aria, "Ouvre Ton Coeur," from Bizet's opera "Carmen."

Dorothy Kirsten

O'Sullivan Stars

Miss Maureen O'Sullivan will star in tonight's "Family Theater" drama, "Violets for Courage," tonight at 9:30 over WGST-MBS. She will play the role of a courageous war widow who fights to keep her family together.

Supper Club

Perry Como will be "racing with the moon" on the WSB-NBC "Supper Club" tonight at 7 when he joins with Mitchell Ayres and the orchestra to offer a collection of top ballads in the inimitable Como manner.

The Davis Program

The National Society of the Founders of Manakin in the Colony of Virginia will feature a Thanksgiving program on the Maggie Davis' program—WCON this afternoon at 2.

Thanksgiving Game

Don't forget to attend the Thanksgiving Day Georgia-Georgia Tech freshman football game for the benefit of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children tomorrow at 3 p. m. at Grant Field. If you can't go, however, tune in the game on your radio and send your contribution in through the station to which you listen. It's a grand cause and deserves your support.

80-MILE-AN-HOUR SPEED

Ga., Fla., N. C. Patrolmen Rush Blood to Hospital

Fast driving Georgia patrolmen combined with highway patrolmen of Florida and North Carolina yesterday to save a life.

The Mountain House Sanitarium, near Asheville, N. C., sent a rush call to the Dade County Blood Bank in Miami Sunday for two pints of blood to be used in an operation on Mrs. Flora Belle Sullivan.

The Florida Highway Patrol sped the blood to Miami International Airport in time to put it aboard an Eastern Air Lines plane, but bad weather forced the plane to stop in Atlanta.

The Georgia Highway Patrol met the plane and rushed it to the North Carolina border, where North Carolina patrolmen took over.

The shipment made the 209 miles from Atlanta to the hospital at an average speed of 80 miles an hour.

PROPHET CHARGED WITH SWINDLE

Atlanta Police Lack Faith In Faith Healer's Cures

The Rev. Dr. Cicero, also known as the Prophet L. C. Patterson, who protested he was a faith healer only, yesterday was bound over under $200 bond each to Fulton Criminal Court on charges of practicing medicine without a license and cheating and swindling.

Deputy City Recorder Frank White assessed the bonds.

Dets. R. E. Little and H. E. Burdett testified they found Dr. Cicero, a Negro, examining a woman patient in the nude in his office and chapel at 173 Pine St., N. E. Dr. Cicero vigorously denied he administered anything other than spiritual cures.

When detectives charged they found in his office bottles of patent medicines with the labels soaked off Dr. Cicero explained the medicines often "soured" and he had placed the bottles in water to keep them cool. He said he used only herb preparations.

In his statement to the court, Dr. Cicero said he had been a minister for 27 years and added he prayed over each remedy before recommending its use. He quoted passages from the Bible to show power was given to Disciples of Christ to cast out evil spirits.

Little and Burdett charged Dr. Cicero was collecting as much as $1,000 weekly from Negro patients by soaking off the labels from patent medicines and giving them out as prescriptions. In some instances, detectives said, he mixed patent medicines together.

Fulton Judge Seeks Divorce, Child's Custody

Fulton Superior Court Judge Virlyn B. Moore, who has presided over thousands of divorce trials himself, yesterday sought a divorce from his wife and custody of his seven-year-old daughter, Priscilla.

The jurist sued before another judge and alleged cruel treatment, charging that the conduct of his wife, the former Mrs. Tom Connally, had undermined his health.

On the witness stand, Judge Moore told a jury Mrs. Moore spent $20,000 last year, whereas his income was only about $13,500, and she resisted his efforts to keep family expenses within his income.

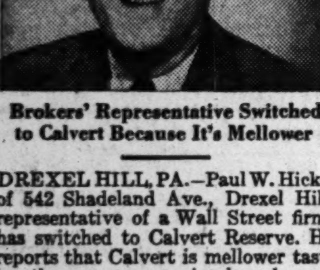

Visiting Judge W. W. Mundy, of Cedartown, is presiding at the trial. Judge Moore is represented by Attys. James A. Branch and John Dennis, and Mrs. Moore by E. D. Kenyon, of Gainesville.

Your City Hall

By HERMAN HANCOCK

SIGN STUDY — City Building Inspector Marvin Harper yesterday said he will ask City Atty. Jack C. Savage to prepare an ordinance barring signs in Atlanta which protrude over sidewalk areas. The step is in line with a proposal by Ald. Dowse Donaldson to improve the central business section by eliminating objectionable signs, cleaning up premises, widening sidewalks and resurfacing streets. Harper said there have been persistent efforts the past several months to build bigger signs and that the practice has grown all out of proportions to the need. He said overhanging signs are a danger to pedestrians and also to vehicle traffic, since it is more difficult to see traffic control lights because of lights from many of the signs.

LEGISLATORS FETED—Members of the Association of Administrative Department Heads of Atlanta last night invited members of the Fulton, DeKalb and Clayton delegations in the Georgia Legislature to attend a monthly dinner. The affair was staged at the Pine Tree Tea Room, across Mitchell Street from the City Hall. Officers of the organization said the affair was strictly social.

JARRELL HONORED—Miss Ira Jarrell, City School Superintendent, yesterday had another honor. The German Youth Activities group sent her a certificate for cooperating in the program for German youths. The new diploma is signed by Lt. Gen. C. R. Hubner and Maj. Eli White, German Youth Activity Officer, who formerly was a teacher in the Atlanta system. Several Atlanta schools took up collections to buy school equipment and supplies to further the educational program now under way in Germany.

MAYOR'S DAY — Mayor Hartsfield yesterday added to his scientific education by visiting a chemical laboratory which was functioning full blast. Hartsfield said he "learned a lot." Last night he attended a meeting of City Department heads. The remainder of the day was spent in attending to routine matters.

POLICE BLOTTER

WATCHES LOST—Two women shoppers in the downtown section apparently became so interested in pre-Christmas bargains they did not notice their watches disappearing. Mrs. Robert Hornik, of 1046 Bellview Dr., N. E., reported the loss of a watch set with rubies and diamonds valued at $300. Mrs. H. L. Patrick, of 320 Atlanta Ave., S. E., lost a watch set with diamonds which she valued at $100.

HIT BY TRAIN—Samuel H. Wallace, 42, of Hapeville, was admitted to Grady Hospital early yesterday with a badly mangled right foot after being struck by a freight train at the Atlanta & West Point Railroad crossing on Sylvan Road, Patrolmen C. L. Herring and R. L. Gunter said. Operators of the train did not know of the accident.

PURSE LIFTED—While looking over the wares in the meat market of a Little Five Points gocery store, Mrs. George B. Moore, of 836 Dixie Ave., N. E., reported her handbag disappeared. The handbag containing cash and other items amounting to $40 was lying in the push cart which Mrs. Moore had parked to look over the meat wares.

RING VANISHES — Mrs. Carl G. Moore, of 678 Cumberland Rd., N. E., told police she removed a $250 diamond ring and laid down to take a nap. When she awoke the ring was gone. Shortly thereafter, Det. Sgt. Bill Lyle and Det. Henley Wilbur reported locating the ring in a pawn shop.

BICYCLE NOTICE—Boys and girls who have lost bicycles during recent months may look over an assortment of bicycles in the basement of Police Headquarters Saturday and Sunday, Det. Harry Williams announced. Williams will be on duty from 8 a. m. until 3 p. m. each day. About 75 bikes being held will be placed on the next auction if not claimed.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1NT	P	2D	P
2S	P	4S	P
P

Have you ever "kibitzed" a bridge game in which one player appears to have a decided advantage over the other three participants? If so, you may have observed the frequency with which opening no trump bids were made on hands not always suited for the purpose. The idea is to effect slight hogging of the play. Inasmuch as most game contracts are played at no trump the urge is to get in that bid before partner has the opportunity, lest he become declarer.

In my opinion, this is losing bridge. Not that I do not approve of the stronger player making a decided effort to become declarer. On the contrary, I do. But I think that such an effort should be postponed until later in the auction. My observation has been that the inexperienced player has greater difficulty responding to opening no trump bids than to bids of one in a suit. He never seems to know whether to show his suit, raise the no trump or pass, with the result that the opening bidder must do considerable guessing on the next round.

This is not as it should be, for, in reality, responding to no trump openings is not complicated at all. Assuming the hand is not unbalanced, responder should raise, on the basis of actual count, to two no trump with a little over one and one-half honor tricks (point count of 8) or to three no trump with about two and one-half honor tricks (point count of 10).

Today's hand presented a bidding problem to even the more experienced player in a tournament held not long ago. Most of them preferred to open with one no trump and found difficulty in reaching the best contract. Three no trump was the most popular final contract and even with a club lead into the tenace, declarer was unable to score more than eight tricks.

Experience has shown that it is undesirable to conceal the holding of a four-card major suit, even though the hand is of a no trump type. I usually avoid opening with no trump if my hand contains a four-card major but if I depart occasionally from that practice I make it a point to show the major suit on the next round if I can do so below the game level.

In today's hand North responded to the opening bid with two diamonds. This does not denote a bust as some players mistakenly believe. It merely says, "Partner, I am unable to raise you to two no trump because I have not enough in high cards but I have just a little too much to pass." South now regretted that he had not shown his major suit and did so belatedly by bidding two spades. This gave North's hand new glamor and he lost no time in going to game.
